6 Gunmen Grab Hyde Park Payroll

John Cheever . . . Punched by Bandit

Faced Bandits in Holdup—Catherine Grady (seated), mail department head, was pushed to the floor and the other girls, May Kenney, Nancy Ubertini, Eleanor Volmer and Mae Kelleher (l. to r.), were made to lie on the floor by the bandits who staged the $110,000 holdup at hte Sturtevant plant in Hyde Park today. 6 Gunmen Get $110,000 Payroll in Hyde Park

Six gunmen, garbed in working clothing and operating on a split-second schedule, escaped with $110,000 today in a daring payroll holdup at the B. F. Sturtevant manufacturing plant in Damon st., Hyde Park. Five of the gunmen entered the building through the shop section, where their working garb attracted no attention, and made their way to the second floor office of the mailing department, where the payroll was being made up, forcing employes to lie on the floor while they scooped up the money. The other, remaining in their car in the plant parking lot, suddenly wheeled up to the main entrance at the exact moment his companions came rushing from the main office entrance with the loot.

So carefully timed was the whole operation that the last gunman to leave the building was just able to clamber into the black sedan as it gathered speed for the getaway.

$2000 IN CHANGE IGNORED

The gunmen, making the biggest cash haul in the memory of police officials, ignored some $2000 in change and concentrated their attention on seizing bills only.

The well-executed stickup was carried out just 10 minutes after a shipment of $112,000 was delivered to the plant by armored truck from a Boston bank. Some of the bills were still enclosed in money bags while others had been sorted in trays to be placed in pay envelopes when the gunmen entered the office.

The gunmen had crossed an enclosed bridge from the second floor shop section of the plant to the office corridor.

Halfway down the corridor, two of them turned into the telephone switchboard office.

"Pull those plugs, this is a stickup," one of them said to the operators, Miss Elizabeth Kinsella of East st. and Miss Irene Rattman, Ridgeway st., both of Dedham.

One of them reached over and pulled out the plugs, the girls said. Then, waving a sawed-off shotgun, he forced them to go along with him to the mailing department office across the corridor.

There, two other gunmen already had forced 14 men and women employes to lie on the floor.

THOUGHT TO BE PRANK

Miss Catherine Grady, head of the mail department, said this pair had entered the offices wearing black domino masks and that her first thought was that it was a Halloween prank.

She said she laughed as one of the men declared it was "stickup" and that he seized her roughly by the arm and forced her to lie on the floor, at the same time brandishing an automatic and ordering the others in the room to lie on the floor.

"What do you think this is, a Halloween party?" the gunman asked, as he pushed her to the floor.

She realized it was no joke and ordered the other employes in the room to obey the commands of the gunman and remain quiet.

"That's right, sister," the gunman, apparently the leader, said. "We don't want to hurt anyone. All we want is the cabbage."

MASKED MEN RUSH IN

Two of the men then headed for the vault room, which opens off the mailing department office. The vault door was open and the inner door unlocked. Inside, Paymaster Ralph W. Marshall, Stoneham; Mrs. Catherine Johnston, Linnet st., West Roxbury, assistant cashier, and two other employes were busy sorting the money preparatory to placing it in pay envelopes.

"I heard the door open,"

Hunt Bodies Of Governor, Two Aides

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore., Oct. 30 (AP)—Foresters and scores of veteran woodsmen worked through a rugged southern Oregon mountain area in the pre-dawn darkness today to reach the wreckage

Robt. Farrell Sen. M. Cornett

of a private plane that carried Oregon's Governor, the secretary of state and State Senate president and an experienced pilot.

The shattered wreckage was sighted and identified late yesterday by two civilian pilots who reported the small craft was "so damaged that no one could be alive."

There seemed slight chance that fate had spared any of the four—three of them ranking executives of the State—who left here Tuesday night on a one-hour flight to Warner Valley to hunt ducks and geese.

Aboard the single engine four-place sportsplane were Gov. Earl Wilcox Snell, 52; State Senate President Marshall Cornett, 49, next in line of succession to the governorship; Sec. of State Robert S. Farrell, Jr., 41, and Cliff Hogue, 42, Klamath Falls, the pilot.

Confirmation of the death of the Governor and his normal successor, the Senate president, automatically elevates the Speaker of the State House of Representatives to the governorship. He is John H. Hall, 48, Republican, a Portland attorney and World War I veteran.

The three Oregon officials had left the State capital Tuesday, planning a direct flight to the ranch of Oscar Kittredge.

Ring Lardner, Jr. Joins Film Pals in Defying Red Probers

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP)—Ring Lardner, Jr., declined today to tell a House un-American activities subcommittee whether he is or has been a member of the Communist party. The son of the late noted writer took the same stand which led the committee to cite eight earlier witnesses for contempt. This is that the committee has no right to ask questions about political beliefs.

Lardner, a script writer who adapted "Forever Amber" to the screen, was the first witness called as the committee went into the ninth day of its public hearings in its investigation of Communism in Hollywood.

The 32-year-old, thin Lardner wore a dark business suit, a blue shirt and a blue tie. He spoke with a nervous voice, prompting Chairman Thomas (R.) of New Jersey to remark: "You haven't learned your lines very well."

The resumption of the hearings was delayed by a closed-door session of the committee to consider the future course of its hearings. No announcement was made as to any decision reached.

Thomas had said earlier that before the day's hearings were concluded the committee would develop from a "mystery" witness "sensational evidence about atom bomb espionage."

This witness, a top committee official said in advance of the day's session, has evidence to show that certain movieland Reds were key figures in a plot to steal the secret of the bomb.

There were reports at the Capitol that the mystery witness would be Louis J. Russell, former FBI agent now on the committee staff.

But committee chairman J. Parnell Thomas (R.) of New Jersey, and chief investigator Robert E. Stripling threw a heavy curtain of secrecy around the promised developments.

"We're going to pull the fuse off an atom bomb," was all Thomas would say to newsmen who pumped him in vain for information.

Except for a few odds and ends to be pulled together tomorrow, the espionage chapter was scheduled to be the last in the committee's investigation, now nearing the end of its second week.

NOT TO CALL CHAPLIN

Thomas said the committee plans to end the hearings tomorrow without calling Charlie Chaplin as a witness, although the film star is under subpoena.

Asked whether the fact that the Senate war investigating committee resumes its inquiry into Howard Hughes' wartime airplane contracts next week had anything to do with the decision to end the Hollywood session this week, Thomas replied:

"We're not going to run into that."

He added that the committee may have another hearing later on specific movies to determine whether any of them contain Communist propaganda. Committee investigators are making a preliminary study of the films now, Thomas said.

Spokesmen for the motion picture industry have insisted that the committee cite the names of any movies suspected of containing propaganda.

The espionage development was slated for this afternoon's session.

Several more witnesses represented by Attys. Robert W. Kenny and Bartley C. Crum were on the list to testify at the session's start.

If they follow the example of eight others represented by the same two lawyers, they will decline to give a "yes or no" answer to questions dealing with membership in the Screen Writers Guild and the Communist Party.

Lady in Mink Tops N. Y. Luxury Relief

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—A City Welfare investigation that revealed the story of a mink-coated divorcee with a child who lived as a "relief client" in a hotel at $7.50 a day although she had assets of $60,000, sparked a campaign today for recovery of funds in at least 20 "questionable cases." The State Board of Social Welfare opened its probe of the city's welfare setup by charging at a public hearing that the mink-garbed divorcee was one of 42 home relief families quartered in hotels up to last May 21.

Bernard Shapiro, supervisor of State social welfare, testified his investigation showed little effort was made to relocate homeless families after they had been lodged in hotels at rents running from $1.50 to $19 daily, and averaging $7.50 a day.

ILLEGITIMATE BABY

Shapiro said the attitude of the city's relief administration was: "The client is always right."

Discussing the case of Madame X, the woman in mink, Shapiro said:

"She came here from California a year ago with a 4-month-old child born out of wedlock for the purpose of marriage with the child's father. She had been divorced from a well-to-do man in California and her application for relief indicated that she had received a divorce settlement of $40,000 in 1940.

"About June, 1946, she applied for relief and got it. She was assigned to a certain hotel, but instead of going there she went to one more expensive. The city social worker saw her for the first time in her hotel room and described her appearance with awe.

The workers's report says that she put on 'a very beautiful mink coat and a mink hat,' she was very well dressed, and apparently she was a person accustomed to a very high standard of living.

"When the welfare department knew that she had received $40,000, the department was not playing with peanuts. And she indicated in her own relief application that she got that money.

"In addition to the $40,000, she had sold stocks in 1942 for $20,000, but the records show that no further check was made on her resources. First, she is allowed to settle in a hotel of her own choice with her child and is given a restaurant allowance in addition for the child and herself. She becomes very well adjusted to this situation and when she is told to move she doesn't like it. Her monthly budget for herself and child was $22.75, and she was fully employable because she had worked at several jobs after her divorce at an average wage of $190 a month."

BOOKIE GETS RELIEF

Shapiro described some of the other relief clients, who he said had been quartered illegally in hotel rooms by the welfare department, as:

A woman who lived there with her common-law husband.

A mother and her three children, drawing $30 a week on relief, whose husband was a $100-a-week automobile salesman.

A woman who worked as a bookie, using her relief-supplied hotel room in the theatrical district as "a front for gamblers and bookmakers."

The hearings are continuing.

Witnessed Mystery Shooting in Somerville

Somerville 'Gang Killing' Ancient Hoax

The "gangland shooting" that had Somerville's Brickbottom district by the ears this morning had police hot under the collar as they reported the incident was a hoax—and an old one, at that. Details would not be revealed, said Somerville Police Chief Augustine F. Sharry, but "we are satisfied that there was no outbreak of gangsterism and the case has been solved to everybody's satisfaction."

The hoax, he indicated, was a revival of the long-dormant "Yoo-hoo Mary" stunt in which an unsuspecting Lothario is sent to visit a supposedly amenable young lady, unaware he will be greeted at the door by an irate husband.

First police reports, pieced together from residents in the Linden-Charlestown sts. section, seemed to point to a killing of an underworld character.

According to those reports, an unidentified man hid mysteriously in a doorway until a car of fairly expensive make pulled up. He jumped in, but the car was immediately hemmed in by two less expensive cars.

From one of these, a second man leaped out, strode to the first car, thrust a 12-gauge shotgun through a window and fired three blasts. All three cars then sped away.

The fact was that two spent shells were found at the junction of Linden and Charlestown sts. by Richard Hodges, 14, of Charlestown st. A second fact was that Mrs. Ruth Lord, Mrs. Evelyn Briggs and Leila Briggs, all living in the same Charlestown st. house, reported seeing a man lurking in a doorway.

Further details were supplied to police by Anthony DiFrira, Marion st.

Until a thorough investigation was made by Sharry, Capt. John J. Killourhy and Insp. Sgt. Joseph C. Crowley, police of Greater Boston were alerted to watch for a body that may have been dumped in a lonely spot. Harbor police were instructed to make a similar search.

Sharry said he knew the names of all concerned in the hoax but refused to reveal them.

General's Adoption at 50 Rich Widow's Idea, He Says

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 30—Admitting that he has been adopted by an 80-year-old Newport dowager, a retired Army general insisted today that the strange legal procedure was not arranged by him. Brig. Gen. Ralph C. Tobin, USA (Ret.), who, at 57, became the only child of wealthy Mrs. Hamilton Fish Webster, was interviewed at Pen Craig, the showplace estate of the widowed society leader. The Newport social index lists the estate as Gen. Tobin's home also.

He told reporters, "I originally opposed adoption, but Mrs. Webster insisted."

He did not elaborate on this statement.

Legal proceedings were carried out in utmost secrecy at the Webster estate nine days ago, it was reported. Atty. William A. Peckham filed the papers the following day in Newport Probate Court.

NO APPROVAL NEEDED

Court Clerk John M. Dring confirmed the filing and added that no approval of the proceedings is necessary. He termed it "a full age adoption."

Mrs. Webster, whose husband died in 1939 and left her an estate of $1,250,000 in trust as well as lifetime occupancy of the $120,000 Pen Craig estate, was reported ill and confined to her bed.

Gen. Tobin retired after service in both World Wars. He was awarded the Silver Star during World War I. He is widely known in New York and Newport social circles.

Mrs. Webster, regarded as a leader of the "Old Guard" in Newport's upper social strata, has been active in civic affairs of the city. She took part in Democratic politics for years, was elected to the Newport Representative Council in 1933 and is a past president of the Garden Ass'n of Newport. She is also a stockholder in the Newport Casino Theater Co.

RETAINS NAME

Clerk Dring said the general would retain his family name of Tobin but would gain all the rights of a natural son under inheritance tax laws.

Legal circles said that Tobin will not share in the estate left in trust to the widow by her husband, but that he stands to inherit her personal fortune. She is the former Lina Post, a cousin of Emily (Price) Post, the authority on etiquette and related by marriage to New York's ex-Congressman Hamilton Fish.

Gen. Tobin, a bachelor, is listed in "Who's Who in America." He attended the College of the City of New York, his native city, and served with the National Guard on the Mexican border in 1916. He served overseas in World War I, remained in the National Guard in peacetime and after returning to duty in 1941 was made a brigadier general in 1942 when he commanded the seventh regiment, 207th Coast Artillery.

Six other unions have voted to allow their members to seek work in the studios again.

Disabled Car Ties El Traffic

Thousands were late for work in downtown Boston this morning when power trouble and a disabled street car tied up traffic in the subway, between Boylston st. and Kenmore sq., shortly after 8 a. m.

Metropolitan Transit officials reported an intermittent power failure at the Newbury station affected subway service on the Reservoir-Beacon, Lake st.-Commonwealth and Watertown lines and along the Huntington ave. line.

Complicating the power failure, a two-car inbound Watertown train became disabled at the entrance of the subway on Commonwealth ave., near Blanford st., when motor trouble developed in the second car. Street cars inbound were lined up in the subway and on Commonwealth ave., causing a half-hour tieup before partial service was resumed.

Pole-Ukraine Fighters Pose Hard Task for U. S. in Reich

By AUSTEN LAKE
Boston American Staff Correspondent

STRAUBING, Germany (With the U. S. Constabulary)—Our zonal government has a "hot potato" on its hands in the little Danube town of Deggendorf, near the Czech border. I flew there today from this regimental HQ with pilot Capt. Robert "Pappy" Dearth of Auburn, Mass., to look into a situation which has our MG big brass at Frankfurt chewing its cuffs. There's a neat point of international law involved.

Synopsis: In recent weeks groups of Polish-Ukrainian guerrilla fighters, heavily armed, have been sneaking across the Czech frontier at night between constabulary check points and surrendering to troopers inside the zone. They say they are hopelessly outnumbered by Sovietized Czech forces and wish to be interned as "prisoners" of a war that does not officially exist, until "such time as a Russian-U. S. war breaks out," which they consider "inevitable."

So I went to Deggendorf by special consent of Brigade HQ at Munich, which takes a very dim view of the matter, to talk with the Ukrainian leader—a short, sandy-haired, hot-eyed man of 26, built like a high school halfback. A CIC agent, Nicholas Nayko, former school teacher at Nesquehoning, Pa., did the interpreting.

The 79 "Bandera," as they call themselves, were loosely interned in one of a nest of German barracks, where they sunned against the walls and watched our arrival with the fixed attention of puppies expecting a ration of dog biscuit. Constabulary troopers with loaded Garand rifles marched watchfully around them.

LAW VS. HUMANITY

Our MG doesn't know what to do with them. The Constabulary doesn't want them. But there they are, while U. S. Occupation officials debate their fate—whether to dump them back across the border to almost certain death by Russian firing squads, or add them to our increasing number of refugees.

Here's the hitch. By inter-Allied agreement, each Occupation zone command is required to return all people who cross the borders without permit, within 24 hours. Thus, technically, the American MG should have deported these Ukrainians immediately. That's the legal aspect. The humanitarian one is that to do so would sign their death warrants.

Chances are that the men will be allowed to remain here, since Russian frontier guards have practically forced many thousands of their DP's across the American line without regard to passports and have stubbornly refused to take them back, in open contempt of the interzonal agreement. Russia doesn't want the DP's and is happy to pass their cost of upkeep to the Americans, who add them to our constantly swelling DP population rather than let them starve. These Ukrainian soldiers are not, per se, DP's. They are "hot potatoes," and the potential makings of an international incident.

The Bandera leader, who calls himself "Capt. Juri Valko," probably fictitious, is a talkative, tough-faced little man who looks younger than his 26 years. So do most of the other partisans whom I had Valko line up on the Caserne pavement to get a size-up of their types. Both he and they complied

Police Captains' Test Stands

Civil Service Director Thomas J. Greehan today rejected the request of a group of Boston police lieutenants that he nullify an examination held Oct. 11 for promotion to the grade of captain.

He also rejected the group's request for a new examination. The lieutenants charged that three of the 10 questions asked in the examination were in violation of Chapter 31, Section 10, General Laws, in that they did not fairly test the fitness of the examinees to perform the duties of captain.

In a letter to the protesting lieutenants, Greehan wrote:

"I am of the opinion that the questions to which you refer were proper under the law."

The group has a right to appeal the decision to the full Civil Service board and then to the courts. The examinations are still being graded.

"Long underpants are still often exhibited to us in the consulting room instead of being relegated to the museum, where they rightly belong."

Rain Eases N. E. Fire Menace, Value of Dry Ice Questioned

Maine's fire-ravaged communities turned today from the week-long ordeal of battling blazing woodlands to the equally arduous task of rehabilitation, as beneficent light rains reduced the menace in still-smouldering areas. Elsewhere throughout New England the prayed-for rain was giving the knockout blow to the fiery Frankenstein.

Nor were the victims of the disaster much concerned over the question whether Mother Nature or the scientific rainmakers were responsible for the relief. They remembered that the holocaust had taken a toll of 15 lives in the Pine Tree State and inflicted damage estimated at more than $30,000,000. Their task was to rebuild and rehabilitate.

Two Army planes in an experimental flight had sowed dry ice into clouds over New Hampshire, with the hope of scientists that any artificial rain resulting would be wind-swept into devastated Maine. Rain had already begun to fall, however, before the test was made.

LIGHT SHOWERS

Because of the rainfall before and after the test, weather bureau experts would not hazard an opinion as to the success of the experiment.

The warning issued by Maine State Forest Comr. Raymond E. Rendall that "the drizzle, with not too much water in it" hadn't eliminated the fire hazard, but was holding fires in the under-control status, was supported by Boston's weather bureau experts.

They said the forecast was for only light, intermittent showers in the southwest portion of Maine and southern New England, with no rain in the northern and eastern sections of Maine. What rain fell throughout the night was very light.

Today's forecast for Boston and vicinity was cloudy and cooler, scattered brief showers and highest temperature in the middle 50s.

As all fires in New England were reported under control, Gov. Horace A. Hildreth announced that the Red Cross had informed him that under its charter, it would rebuild the homes and restore the farms of all Maine's permanent residents. It was estimated that 1000 permanent homes were destroyed. Where farm animals perished, the governor's office said that the Red Cross would replenish the stock.

All evacuees from Bar Harbor whose homes were left standing were allowed to return yesterday. But a 6 p. m. curfew has been imposed for women and children, and all men are obliged to register. Non-residents will be barred from the town until further notice.

Jobless Aid Ban In Quincy Upheld

Refusal of Robert E. Marshall, director of the Massachusetts Division of Employment Security, to pay unemployment benefits to any workers at the Quincy shipbuilding plant of the Bethlehem Steel Co., made idle as the result of the CIO union strike, was upheld today by the division's board of review.

The three-man board found that irrespective of whether those who had been idle since June were members of the union or were non-union members forced out of work, all are disqualified from receiving unemployment compensation.

The decision resulted from appeals brought by counsel for 239 Bethlehem workers from an advance decision handed down by Marshall. However, it affects all 2421 employes who have been out of work since the strike began. Of the total, 563 have returned to their jobs.

Braintree Man Reported Missing

Last seen when he left the house to purchase groceries at a neighborhood store, police were notified after he failed to return late at night.

McCarthy's wife, Doris, expressed the belief he may be a victim of amnesia. He is described as 5 feet 5 inches, 150 pounds, with brown hair and blue eyes.

Peeping Petticoats Revive Styles of Grandma's Day

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Boston American Fashion Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—The Age of Innocence and the gold rush days may be as far apart as the North and South Poles, but with true poetic license the fashion experts have forced them into a combination to give women something new and whoops-my-dear-conversational to wear.

As if the "new look" had not already almost split America's women into two schools of fashion thought, a newer look, if that is possible, was advanced at a Fashion Of The Times showing here.

Don't look now, but your petticoat will show next spring. Not ordinary petticoats, but decorative, lace-edged or whispering, rustling taffeta showing coquettishly below hemlines for tailored and street wear, resort outfits and even evening gowns. They are all colors, including lipstick red and kelly green.

ANKLE ACCENT

It is just another designer's up-the-sleeve trick, to focus attention on the ankles, where intriguing femininity must manifest itself.

With skirt lengths officially decreed as 10 to 12 inches from the ground, the experts are banking on the ingenuity of the fair damsel to lift her skirt, accidentally on purpose, to show a bit of her trim, slim limb.

That's going back to the Age of Innocence, they say, those days when grandma in her own sweet and demure way insinuated a knowing sophistication for all her decorous elegance and endearing young charms.

To increase ankle appeal, stockings will go can-can for spring. Mother and dad may remember the Gay Nineties, when the fetching females of the footlights twirled their ballerina skirts in clock-wise fascination to expose their limbs, even if you don't.

COLORS TO RULE

Inspired by the gold rush days, stockings will go gay and bright for spring. And we do mean bright. Such colors, riotous in hue, as red, green, gray, pink, navy and even deep bronze will take their place along with costumes designed to maintain a head-to-toe symphony of color for spring and resort wear.

SHADES OF AMBER

Sombre black along with suntoned hosiery has been relegated into oblivion for spring. The designers have run riot with color for the new season. Even pearls, the biggest jewelry news in years, are smarter when they are on the smoky and bronzy tones.

The Fashion Of The Times show, previewed by the press, launched amberlight, from the palest yellow to brilliant orange to the deepest rust brown as spring's heralded new fashion tone.

We doubt its acceptance, since any of the orange family shades are usually difficult to wear, save by the redhead. Maybe it will be a high-style color, but we doubt if it will ever reach or be accepted by the masses, even as you and I.

Clothes for spring continue the "new look," only more so. Skirts are fuller and more voluminous, waist lines are built up, the silhouette reaches closer to the ground.

The evening picture, however, remains true to keynoted elegance. Spring of 1948 will not only find the new silhouette with its longer skirt, rounded shoulder and nipped-in waistline predominant, but will see as well the return of elegant fabrics such as brocades, velvets, laces, lames, organzas, nets, fine worsteds, and entirely new techniques and effects in printed fabrics.

SPRING HUES DARING

Spring prints will be brave, bold, daring and all over splash of color in bright greens, reds, yellows, pinks, grays and blues.

Hattie Carnegie's contribution to the printed costume scene was a great tribute to the ingenuity of this designer. The costume, a versatile one, which could be worn several ways, first appeared as

Sex Fiend Hunted in Killing of Boy

CHICAGO, Oct. 30 (AP)—Police rounded up all known sex offense suspects today as they intensified their search for the slayer of Lonnie Fellick, 7, whose beaten body was found in a forest preserve 11 days after the disappeared from home.

State's Atty. William T. Tuohy said he believed the boy, last seen alive Oct. 18 in a park near his home, was slain by a sex criminal.

Coroner A. L. Brodie said Lonnie died of blows that fractured his skull behind the left ear and caused a hemorrhage in his left chest. His right temple also had been injured.

Police found a 30-pound piece of concrete pavement near the boy's body and investigators said it probably was the death weapon.

Brodie, who also expressed belief the boy was a victim of a sex criminal, estimated Lonnie had been dead from five days to a week.

The boy's mother, Mrs. Mary Fellick, had reported to police on Oct. 18 that Lonnie had threatened to run away rather than be placed in a foster home if a threatened eviction of Mrs. Fellick and her seven children was carried out.

Police said Mrs. Fellick told them her second husband, Abe, a veteran of the last war, is in California recovering his health.

127 Heroes' Bodies Due In N. Y. From Bermuda

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (INS)—Army port authorities announced today the transport Stevens Victory will arrive at the Brooklyn Army Base tomorrow with 127 bodies of American servicemen being returned from the St. David Cemetery in Bermuda.

The Stevens Victory is scheduled to dock at 9 a. m. at Pier 3. A 30-minute ceremony, in which a Catholic, a Protestant and a Jewish chaplain will participate, will be held on the pier beginning at 11 o'clock.

Fumes Kill Fitchburg Mother and Son, 5

FITCHBURG, Oct. 30 (AP)—Mrs. Lionel E. Fortin, 35, and her 5-year-old son, Armand, were found dead in bed today in their apartment. Police reported gas jets in the kitchen were open.

The woman's husband has been ill in a hospital for several days.

Scots Cheer as Elizabeth Launches 34,000-Ton Ship

By FRED DOERFLINGER

CLYDEBANK, Scotland, Oct. 30 (INS)—Thirty thousand shipyard workers cheered Princess Elizabeth and her fiance, Lt. Philip Mountbatten, at a launching ceremony today in which the future British queen called on her countrymen to put Britain's needs "above personal feelings."

The princess, making one of her last public appearances before her wedding on Nov. 20, told her future subjects that Lt. Mountbatten shares her pride in the accomplishments of British ship designers and builders.

Officials and Scots cheered as she launched the 34,000-ton White Star liner Caronia.

She told them Britain "must work out its own salvation."

The princess, referring to the future prince consort, said:

"Naturally, he shares my interest in your achievements and my pride in the fame which our designers and builders have won for us through the ages, and which will be given a new line in this ship."

"Lt. Mountbatten and I are here at a time when, in spite of all our achievements, Britain is confronted with difficulties and dangers of a kind we have never had to face before.

"But as in 1940, we have got to win this battle ourselves."

Mrs. F. D. Too Busy To Go to Royal Wedding

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (AP)—A secretary for Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt said today she had declined a formal invitation from the British royal family to attend the wedding Nov. 20 of Princess Elizabeth and Lt. Philip Mountbatten.

Mrs. Roosevelt replied she would be unable to go to London because of the press of her official duties as a member of the United States delegation to the United Nations, the secretary said.

The invitation was received ann answered last week.

Girl Views Biers of Hero Dad, Grandma

SOUTH PARIS, Me., Oct. 30—In a tragedy-scarred home here, a little girl gazed today on the flag-draped casket of her father killed in action in the Pacific and on the nearby casket of the woman who had died awaiting the arrival of her dead son's remains.

Edith Strout, 8, has been an orphan since her father Pvt. Fillmore Strout, 36, was cut down in fighting on a Pacific island. Her mother died in childbirth, and since infancy she has been reared by her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Sarah Ellen Strout, 63.

Mrs. Strout and her husband, John, a local millworker, lived with Edith in the home here of their daughter, Mrs. Fred Beilby. Shortly after Pearl Harbor, they saw Fillmore enter the Army and a second son, Harry, 42, follow him.

Edith was old enough to recall the day a War Dept. telegram arrived and her grandmother told her that Fillmore, her father, was dead. And 10 days later the girl watched her grandmother receive a second War Department telegram stating that Harry Strout had been killed in action.

Edith was told recently that her hero father would soon be coming home for burial in the family plot in Turner Village Cemetery, and before very long her Uncle Harry's body would be starting home to lie beside that of her father.

Just one hour before the family was to receive Fillmore's body, Mrs. Strout collapsed and died.

The two caskets, of mother and son, were arranged close to each other. Edith will attend funeral services for the woman she knew as mother at 2 p. m. tomorrow. Sunday she will be the principal mourner as military honors are paid her father.

Six Lynn War Heroes To Lie in State on Arrival

A city-sponsored tribute to the flag-draped caskets of six Lynn war heroes, which will lie in state in the city armory when they arrive Sunday, will be paid by city and veterans' organizations.

Defendant Takes Stand in Fens Attack Trial

Robert P. Watkins, Jr., 34, Roxbury dental technician, resumed the witness stand in Suffolk Superior Court today, after having testified in his own defense that instead of being the attempted attacker of Mrs. Patricia Dyksinski, 27, of Commonwealth ave., Back Bay, in the Fenway last month, he thought she was holding him up.

Watkins is on trial before Judge Frank E. Smith in a jury-waived session, charged with attempted criminal assault on Mrs. Dyksinski, assault with intent to murder Patrolman Earl Coutu of Roxbury Crossing division, and robbery and illegal possession of a revolver.

Mrs. Dyksinski has testified that Watkins grabbed and dragged her back 30 feet on the Fenway Museum lawn and knocked her down, also that a small revolver loaned her by a roommate was snatched from her hand when she attempted to use it in self-defense, and that her assailant threatened to knife her if she screamed.

She testified her cries for help were loud enough to attract the attention of Patrolman Coutu, who was off duty and passing by in his auto.

Watkins testified he had been walking to clear his head after drinking with two women friends and that on hearing a voice he saw a woman with a pistol in her hand.

"I seized both her hands and struggled with her trying to wrest the gun from her," Watkins testified.

At the request of Asst. Dist. Atty. Edward J. Sullivan he left the witness stand to demonstrate how he struggled. He denied having knocked the woman down and dragging her into the dark.

Run on Sugar Seen Foolish, Country Has Ample Supply

No matter how sweet America's tooth is, there's more than enough sugar to satisfy it and in New England the supply so far exceeds any possible demand that a "run" on that table staple would be foolish.

That opinion was voiced here by officials of two large chain-store markets and Malcolm McCabe, executive secretary of the Massachusetts Retail Grocers Ass'n, an organization of independent merchants.

The New York Daily Mirror reported that there seemed to be a "run" on sugar, especially in the Midwest, for hoarding purposes on the eve of the expiration of price controls on the commodity. Consumers, the newspaper reported, apparently feared a sharp boost in prices.

"No price rise is anticipated," said McCabe. "Our reserves in New England are so large that more than enough stock is guaranteed for all New England needs."

Hoarders, he said, would only lose out because sugar hardens, deteriorates and eventually becomes useless. His organization and the two chain store organizations reported sugar purchases are heavy but not inordinately so. Furthermore, they said, the demand is usually heavier at this time of year because so many housewives are canning fruits.

The Mirror said:

"The dealers admit the average American housewife can hardly be expected to know that areas that usually supply the U. S. are expected to produce approximately 10,736,000 tons of raw sugar in 1948, compared with a prewar 8,000,000 tons.

"The figures, said dealers, are enough to prove there is no shortage of sugar facing the American people. On the contrary, they added, everyone can get all the sugar they want."

Spook Costumes Rule

Want to Be Halloween Witch?

CHICAGO, Oct. 30 (AP)—When it comes to dressing up for Halloween most people would rather be skeletons.

Some would like to be rabbits.

And then there are those who want to be their "suppressed desires," which might be "anything from looking like a can of sardines to the sexiest thing on feet."

Lester of Lester, Ltd., Chicago theatrical supply house, on the eve of Halloween reviewed requests made by people preparing for Halloween masquerades.

This year's biggest run, Lester said, is being made on skeleton, or what the trade calls "spools" costumes. These include witches, devils, ghosts, ghouls and many other unfriendly characters. Lester explained designs for these and other costumes require research that takes investigators through museums, universities, art archives and a good deal of literature.

Lester, who has traveled through most of the world gathering costume material, said he keeps 100,000 costumes on hand to meet demands for garments of every nation.

He said he can't recall ever being stumped to meet a request. "We've dressed up people as a pair of scissors, orange, macaroni, coffee pot, butter cookies and tube of toothpaste."

"Most popular now is the Spanish costume. Our most colorful is the chipanacas, a hand-made gown for a Mexican dance," Lester said.

"Many women ask for something daring, but once they put on something brief, they blush and cry, 'I just couldn't,' but they do and they're happy about it. This comes under the 'suppressed desire' heading. All the ladies want to be glamorous and very fetching."

Lester, who has been in the theatrical supply business for nearly 30 years, described a Siamese outfit he believes turns most heads.

"This one has a net bra that is next to nothing, pagoda shaped shoulder ornaments, a long white crepe skirt that is draped and split up one side and a huge jeweled head gear. Of course, we have a Lady Godiva wig but that's extreme without a horse."

N.H. Girl Cites Freedom Hope In Dad Killing

LACONIA, N. H., Oct. 30—First woman to be indicted on a murder charge in New Hampshire in 50 years, Barbara Roberts, 20, a brunette, said today she was confident she and her young brother will be freed when the jury hears her story.

Barbara and William Roberts, 16, were charged with second degree murder by a grand jury in the slaying last December of their father, Sylvester, 52, at the Roberts' farm in Gilmanton Iron Works.

His body was found under the barn last month when two older brothers returned from sea voyages and allegedly obtained a murder confession from their sister.

Barbara told her lawyer:

"It is nice to know the grand jury has been convinced I did not plan the killing. I want the public to know it was not premeditated. I am truly confident that when a jury hears my story, both William and I will be freed."

The jurors, in returning a second degree charge instead of first degree, eliminated the death penalty in event of conviction of the young brother and sister.

The girl appeared shocked on hearing that an indictment had been returned against her young brother, whom she described as "the kid I brought up." He is being held at the State Industrial School and she is in Belknap County jail here.

Worcester Woman Willed Most of Sister's Estate

CHICAGO, Oct. 30 (AP)—Mrs. Clara Downs Wells, of 7 Westland st., Worcester, Mass., receives the bulk of the $200,000 estate of her sister, Miss Henrietta Bradford Downs, 92, member of a pioneer Chicago family, it was disclosed today when a petition to admit the will to probate was filed.

The family is directly descended from Gov. William Bradford and William Brester of the Plymouth Colony.

SOME CLIMBER

CHICAGO, Oct. 30 (AP)—Mrs. Vivian Knafelz looked high and low today for her missing three-year-old son Richard—but not high enough.

Community Fund Workers Hear First Collection Report

First announcement of collections in the Greater Boston Community Fund's campaign were tabulated today at the first report luncheon, at the City Club.

Providing entertainment for those attending the luncheon were many of the cast of the famous musical, "Oklahoma!"

Head table guests included Greater Boston's Red Feather Girl, Jacqueline Crouse, and an 8th grade, poster winning student from Lincoln, John Wiley. The 1948 chairman, Philip H. Theopold, presided.

Gov. Bradford's recent suggestion of replacing meat and poultry with Boston's traditional dish of backed beans, to aid the conservation program, was acted upon, and beans were the principal fare at the Dutch treat luncheon.

Today's meeting, first official report sitting in the 1948 campaign, was designated "Governor's Day" in honor of the chief executive who is a long-time friend of the Fund and a former president of the Community Council.

Hub Banker's Son Granted Divorce

ELIZABETH, N. J., Oct. 30 (AP)—Benjamin L. Bucklin of East Orange, son of Walter S. Bucklin, president of the National Shawmut Bank of Boston, was awarded a preliminary divorce decree in chancery court from his wife, Anita K. Bucklin, former Powers model, on grounds of desertion.

Bucklin told advisory master in chancery, Nicholas A. Tomasulo, his wife deserted him in May, 1945.

Tomasulo awarded custody of three-year-old Walter S. Bucklin, 2d, to the mother who lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. Carleton Brown of West Orange.

20 in Blazing Plane Make Safe Landing

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 30 (AP)—A twin-engine airliner carrying a group of workers from Newark, N. J., back to their homes in Puerto Rico landed safely here with one engine afire.

The DC-3 plane with 17 passengers and a crew of three was coming in for a scheduled landing at Southwest airport when the pilot informed the control tower the port engine was ablaze. Firemen extinguished the blaze a few minutes after the plane landed.

a gray coat over a printed dress.

The coat was waist-nipped and full skirted. Suddenly the model removed the upper part of the coat and presented a print bodice with an apron-covered skirt.

SKIRT REVERSES

Then she removed the skirt part of the coat, turned it around and wore it lining out, the lining bold-striped in yellow, gray and blue. Next she removed the coat skirt and appeared in a print dress, of silhouette classicism. Then she removed the fichu and it was a cap-sleeved, low neck dinner version of the dress goods for the cocktail hour.

SHOULDER WRAPS

Another trend of the times will be the wrapping of shoulders for spring . . . Not, for warmth but for fashion. The fichu, sari, shawl, mantilla, stole and finger-tip cape have staged a romantic comeback.

But for the beach and those play hours, the body will again be revealed with an anatomical exposure, commensurate with the convention of law. Practically all the swim suits are strapless and more so, with virtually no back and as little frontal bodice as is necessary.

COTTONS TO REIGN

And cottons will go anywhere and everywhere at fashionable resorts. At the beach, at the country club, for cabana wear and for street wear cotton with its amenable manipulation and drapery will reign.

Watch for two new silhouettes next spring: The melon-shaped skirt and the pleated cocoon-shaped skirt with straight deep flounce beneath it.

And now that we women have gotten so used to breathing, will we, must we wear the new corselets? You tell me. Or are the designers meddling too much with our midrifs?

Legislators Protest Old Age Benefits Slash

Gov. Bradford was asked today by several legislators to restore a planned reduction in monthly payments to 10,000 old age recipients who live with children gainfully employed.

Rep. Thomas P. O'Neil of Cambridge protested that reductions of as much as $16 per month are called for when the new welfare budget goes into effect at midnight tomorrow.

Sickness Absences From Work Decline

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP)—Loss of working time in industries because of sickness declined last year to reverse a trend which had been under way since 1938, the Public Health Service reported today.

Absences of eight or more consecutive days per 1000 men, which rose from 82.3 in 1938 to 147.4 in 1945 dropped to 114.5. Among women the rate, which went up from 130.4 in 1938 to 257.9 in 1945, fell off to 248.2.

Health Test Law Repeal Urged

A demand for immediate repeal of the marriage health test law was presented to the 26th annual meeting of the Massachusetts Town Clerks Ass'n.

Although Deputy State Sec. Arthur J. Hassett reported that the State Board of Health had opposed the required health test for 20 years, a number of the town clerks refused to entertain a unanimous motion for its repeal.

George B. Wellman, town clerk of Watertown, asked that some plan be evolved whereby town officials could remove from the voting lists names of persons who openly renounce U. S. citizenship.

Holdup

Marshall said "I looked around and saw a gun in the opening. I heard someone say stickup and thought it was a joke. Then two men burst in, both were masked and one held a burlap bag in front of his face. They ordered us to move over and face the wall with our hands up. We heard them scooping up the money."

Mrs. Johnston said he back was to the door while she was working on the payroll. Suddenly, she heard a voice say:

'Everyone face the wall.'

"Two me nhad entered," she said. Both had revolvers. Both wore masks. One he'd a burlap bag up to his face. The othe rone didn't speak. In a short ime we could here voices in the outer office telling everyone out there to lie on the floor.

"I glanced at the table. All the cash had been taken. The men left. They left the door open as they went out. Their voices disappeared down the corridor. The whole operation took not more than two minutes.

GOT CAR NUMBER

"As the voices died away, Robert Fulton, one of the clerks, looked out the window down onto the street and was able to jot down the number of the car as the men sped away."

As the gunmen rushed to the stairway, leading from the second floor corridor to the main entrance, they were confronted by John Cheever, 63, Dana ave., Hyde Park, a plant guard.

Cheever was on his way back to his post after calling Tony Manartto, a plant supervisor, whose daughter, Joanna, 9, had called at the main entrance and asked for him. Cheever described his experience:

"I came on duty at 7 a. m. Anyone entering the building at this entrance has to show a pass. I was standing near my desk, my gun in the drawer, when a girl came in and said she would like to see her father, who works on the second floor.

"I ran up the stairs and told him. It didn't take me more than a minute or two. I was just starting down when three men ran up to me. They punched me in the jaw, grabbed me by the neck and stuck a gun in my chest. Then they frisked me in a hurry and made me lie face down on the floor. I could hear the girls screaming. The holdup men ran down and out."

The Manartto girl was standing at the foot of the stairway, waiting for her father, when the gunmen rushed downstairs.

"I was waiting for my daddy to come down and give me some money for school," she said. "I heard a man upstairs yell, 'Get in there, you,' and then a man came running downstairs with a gun. Another man came running after him with a big bag.

"They got into a big shiny car. Then some more men came running downstairs and got into the car. I saw the car go away toward Readville st. I just stood there. I was scared."

Henry Cobb, of Gordon ave., Hyde Park, watchman stationed at a gate about 50 feet from the main entrance, saw the getaway car whirl out of the parking space and pull up before the main entrance.

"The first I knew of any thing wrong was when this big black sedan pulled up in front of the main entrance. Seconds later, two men came dashing out of the building and jumped into the rear seat.

"Then, two more men ran out of the building and jumped into the front seat. The last man into the car was almost left behind. The driver had the car rolling as the second pair ran across the sidewalk and the last man nearly lost his hold on the open door as he teetered on the running board.

"The car speeded up Damon st. toward the Metropolitan District Commission reservation."

From the isolated section where the plant is located, there were many avenues of escape for the getaway car.

They could have sped up Damon st. to Readville st. and headed from there in any direction.

Easy of access were Roslindale, Dedham, Milton, Dorchester, or Boston itself.

Also under consideration was the possibility the gunmen had sped to Readville station where a Providence bound train makes a stop at about 10 minutes after the time the holdup was perpetrated.

Employes could give only sketchy descriptions of the men.

Two of the men wore masks. One of them was described as about 30, of medium complexion, 5 feet 9 inches tall and weighing about 160 pounds. The leader was described as 38 to 40, 5 feet 7 inches tall and of stocky build.

All of the men were garbed in dungarees or working clothing. This attire, it was said, enabled them to walk through the shop, from which they gained entry to the office, where the payroll was being made up, without exciting any suspicion.

The plant, which employs about 1200 persons in the manufacture of blowers, fans and industrial equipment, was taken over as a division of the Westinghouse Electric Corp. less than a year ago.

Commons Votes to Cut Use of Gas for Autos

LONDON, Oct. 30 (INS)—The House of Commons early today approved a bill to restrict use of gasoline by motorists in fuel-short Britain, despite receipt of a million-signature petition protesting the measure.

The bill, part of the labor government's austerity program, squeezed through by a vote of 187 to 160 after a number of laborites had left the prolonged night session.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN
Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 60 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pill

Law Curb on All Planes Aim of Air Policy Board

By WILLIAM P. FLYTHE

Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—The Congressional Joint Air Policy Committee will demand legislation to curb non-certified carriers and put them under the same safety regulations as licensed lines, it was learned today.

New laws may prevent accidents such as the mishap to the Bermuda Sky Queen, it was stated, and also would curb the possible smuggling of aliens and narcotics into the country.

The Bermuda Sky Queen, the Civil Aeronautics Board stated, had violated the law in taking a cargo of passengers aboard, and inspectors were awaiting her arrival in New York to revoke its license even had the accident not occurred.

New laws also would prevent irregular carriers escaping the strict quarantine imposed on the scheduled, licensed routes, making possible the spread of communicable diseases.

WINKING AT LAW

Pilots of questionable ability would be prevented from taking uninspected planes over routes and under conditions with which they are not familiar.

The Air Transport Ass'n, made up of the licensed American lines flying domestic and international routes, charges the Civil Aeronautics Board with winking at the 1938 law designed to regulate all aviation.

"It has allowed some 2000 non-certified carriers to operate without obtaining individual approval—and some 16 big cargo carriers are in the same category," it was stated officially.

The association charged that while it is illegal for the non-certified lines to transport passengers internationally, the Civil Aeronautics Board makes exceptions.

INSPECTION SKIPPED

This is when some non-certified carrier claims to have a contract to transport a number of passengers from one point to another, it was stated.

While regulations require that planes on these missions should be subjected to rigid inspection, it is seldom made, the Air Transport Ass'n charged.

The CAB, on the other hand, claims that in all instances planes and pilots are required to pass inspection and go through the same rigid examination.

"Don't forget—save your strength for the REAL tough part ahead!"

New Haven Grants Workers $250,000

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Oct. 30 (AP)—J. J. Hammill, executive secretary of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, reporting on the results of the mediations at Washington on the Brotherhood's threatened strike against the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, said eight of the cases were "favorably disposed of amounting to awards of $250,000" to the Brotherhood.

Hammill said 10 cases were listed on the strike ballot. Two of the cases were withdrawn by the Brotherhood, he said. Of the eight settled favorably for the Brotherhood, two, he said, amounted to less than $5000 each.

The Brotherhood, about 5000 of whose members work for the New Haven road, voted last week to strike against the road Friday morning. Announcement of the settlement of the issues came from Washington following two days of mediation conferences between representatives of the road and the Brotherhood with the National Mediation Board.

Landon Raps Food Campaign

GARNETT, Kan., Oct. 30 (AP)—Alf M. Landon criticized the Administration's approach to the world food issue, declaring that "putting the emphasis on 'waste less' befogs the public."

"The pill we must take," the 1948 Republican presidential candidate said, "is eat less. The Administration, by sugar coating the same pill, weakened its appeal to the American people and its effectiveness."

Landon, speaking before a Federation of Women's Clubs meeting, said:

"Of all our political leaders Sen. Robert A. Taft (R.) of Ohio is the only one that has had the courage to state the issue plainly, when he said the only way we could do the job confronting us was to 'eat less'."

LOST CAUSE

BALTIMORE, Oct. 30 (AP)—The last organized resistance to the "new look" in Baltimore has fallen, along with hemlines.

Dorothy and Margaret Klipper, office girls, announced their Little-Below-the-Knee Club had disbanded.

"Nobody is interested any more,"* Dorothy lamented.

Margaret fired this rear-action shot at long skirts:

"Those who wear them look terrible."

Waldorf

YOU'LL BE AMAZED

the number of orders!

AH, THAT WONDERFUL golden marrow squash! Shades of our Pilgrim fathers! Just as it was in the days when the Indians introduced it to the people of the Plymouth Colony, so too, today, it is the finest squash that grows for the making of those delicious, golden brown pies which our customers relish more and more, as the years go by!

• Somehow those squash pies are a part of these brisk fall days. Their distinct, spicy rich flavors always remind us of New England's harvest time, and of the other fine vegetables grown on our rocky hillsides. And squash pie belongs to New England . . . it had its birth here. Nowhere else do you find it quite so good.

• Waldorf believes that we should never tamper with the old-fashioned recipes for making squash pie. We know that modern shortcuts ruin the delicate, delicious flavor, and so for going on forty years we have clung to the old-time ways. "For proof of the puddin'" just glance along our tables at any meal time these days. I think you will be amazed at the number of people who have ordered "Squash Pie."

• Try a piece . . . the next time you are in. I am sure you will agree it is the best you ever ate.

AMERICAN AIRLINES

willingly, appearing more youthful, well-fed and physically conditioned than seems possible from the exhausting experiences they claim—four years of bush fighting, forest bivouacs, foraging for uncertain food, constant route marches, etc.

I asked Valko, "when did you do your last fighting?" and he said, "July 15. Then we saw it was hopeless and made for the American border." I asked, "Did it take you so many months to travel so short a distance?" and he replied, "Yes! Three hundred kilometers, mostly by night through woods and mountains." I asked, "Do you get U. S. Army rations here?" and he answered, "I don't think so. The food isn't too good," which seems a curious response for men who say they had eaten nothing but fruits, scavenged potatoes and picked-up foods for 3 months.

UNGRATEFUL GRIPERS

Nayko, the CIC agent, said disgustedly in English,

"That's always the way—gripes, gripes, gripes."

He was skeptical. Yet Valko admitted frankly that he and most of his partisans had fought for the Germans against Russia in the Ukraine Legion from 1943 to the end of war.

Now he said he wanted to "fight on the side of the Americans," and when I said, "What makes you think there is going to be a war?" he said, boldly, "Anybody who doesn't think so is silly."

It was part opinion and part wishful thinking.

The story of the other partisans is the same. They'd joined the guerrillas from sense of patriotic duty. How did they get supplies? They received donations from Ukraine villagers! Where did they get ammunition and arms? They took them from the dead or captured enemy!

"What do you expect the American authorities to do with your men?" I asked, and Valko said without emotion, "That is up to the Americans," while his men nodded in sober silence.

There was nothing abashed about Valko, who plainly holds the respect of his fierce-eyed fighters. No doubt! He is their leader!

By the time this is printed the U. S. government, possibly Washington, will have decided the fate of these men. Also, by that time many others of the band will have crept over our thinly manned frontier. Meanwhile the Ukraine Red Cross is delivering clothes and food parcels, the Constabulary is policing them closely, and MG's top brains are wondering. Are these men authentic partisans as they insist, or have they been smuggled into the U. S. zone as decoys for a Russian incident? Your guess is as good as mine.

In Munich two days since, a CIC agent whom I had known as an infantry officer during the war, told me his office receives each month an average of 150 reports of Communist agents in MG and Army secretarial jobs.

I asked, "Why don't you arrest them or throw them out?" and he said sadly, "It isn't as easy as that. Many of the MG people, for reasons of their own, won't co-operate."

There's a conflict in authority there and some of the MG officials resent what they consider CIC "interference." It makes concentric circles of petty politics.

CAN'T LIVE ON WAGES

With the premature withdrawal of American employes from this theater and the scarcity of typists and intelligent office help, the great majority of hired hands in military government and the Army, is what they term "indigenous personnel"—Germans or DP's of both sexes. It's impossible to screen them all properly for political opinions or outside contacts. They aren't paid much—usually 200 paper marks a month, which is a starvation sum, considering that a pack of U S. cigarets is worth 85 marks on the black market, a pound of coffee 400, a candy bar 25. The girls can't live on such wages, but usually they can't get another job. There aren't many. So, would your common sense say that many of these benighted creatures, who, reports say, are quick to barter their virtue for a tin of sardines or a box of cereal, would resist greater rewards at small risk?

So I asked the CIC agent, who I assure you is in position to know, "Are Soviet agents operating in much force within this zone?" and he said tersely, "Yes," adding, "I doubt that we have many top secrets they don't know."

Late this afternoon, after my return from Deggendorf, there was a fire in a group of German farm buildings near the 11th Regiment Caserne. Flames licked greedily at the age-old timbers, creating a furnace in the hay and grain-filled barns. German firemen with obsolete and worn out apparatus tried to control the inferno with feeble pumps and rotten hose. It made a pitiful scene, farm folk adding to the general confusion by rushing around with armfuls of salvage and firemen trying to coax tiny trickles from hose nozzles. The big barns, shaped in an L, are still smouldering and make a fitful, rosy glow in the night as I write. Paper money cannot replace that loss.

There are three New England officers, all long timers, in the wing of the barracks where I live. Pappy Dearth is just across the hall. Further along the corridor is Maj. Harold W. Weiss of Ware, whose father, Jacob, runs the Ware Public Market. And Lt. Charles H. Scott, of 216 Pear st., Springfield, the building maintenance officer who acted as impromptu fire chief during the farm tragedy. And Lt. Col. Norman K. Jackson of Stoughton, the regiment's "Exec," now in his 20th year of service after rising from the ranks.

MADISON, Wis., Oct 30 (AP)—A Univ. of Wisconsin co-ed declared she had been evicted from a private rooming house because she dated a Negro student last Saturday.

Her landlord and landlady immediately issued a statement confirming the fact and adding they had taken similar action against another girl student.

Iris Alexander, a student from New York city, said she was given notice to leave after she returned from an inter-racial party at the University Memorial Union with a Negro student she declined to name.

Schools Map Campaign for History Tests

By JIM MORTON

Special to the Boston American

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—The annual competition for the $25,000 Hearst history awards was being mapped today by school authorities in 13 major cities from New York to the West Coast.

Students of 1000 high schools, including 185 in the New York area hopefully eyed the $2000 jackpot which will fall to the top winner of the national classic.

Victory would pave the way for a college education.

11 CITIES REPRESENTED

Other awards, to be issued in government bonds, are listed as follows: second, $1000; third, $500; fourth, $250; plus 37 additional prizes.

Competing for the history crown will be student representatives from Albany, Boston, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Chicago, San Antonio, Los Angeles, Oakland, San Francisco and Seattle.

The candidates in each area will be called on to prove their mettle in preliminary tests.

They will be quizzed on the entire span of American history, ranging from the early struggle of the colonies to present-day happenings in the UN.

TEAM OF FIVE

The initial examinations in New York city will be held among parochial students in mid-November. Public school aspirants face the first hurdle shortly before Thanksgiving. A third preliminary will be run off Dec. 2.

On the basis of these tests a team of five youthful experts will be selected to represent Father Knickerbocker in the national finals.

Each of this group will receive a $100 bond from the N. Y. Journal-American. An additional $2500 will be issued in merit awards to the pupils and schools placing highest in the city standings.

Miss Mary White, Kin of Early N. E. Settlers, Dies

UTICA, N. Y. Oct. 30 (AP)—Miss Mary Pierrepont White, direct descendant of distinguished early New Englanders and of 19th century settlers in central and northern New York, died today at the age of 74.

Among her forebears were Elmer John White, who settled in Cambridge, Mass., in 1632 and was one of the founders of Hartford, Ct.; Hugh White, who established Withestown, Oneida county, in 1784, and William Constable Pierrepont, founder of the Jefferson county village of Pierrepont Manor.

Brazil Senate Votes Reds Out of Public Office

RIO de JANEIRO, Oct. 30 (INS)—The Brazilian senate passed a bill cancelling the mandates of Communists elected to public office.

It was the second reading of the measure which now goes to the chamber of deputies for approval and then to Pres. Eurico Gaspar Dutra for his signature.

Cleric Urges Swiss Training in U. S.

By DAN MARKEL
Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—Rev. Merritt F. Williams, canon of Washington Cathedral and national chaplain of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, urged that Congress authorize a universal military training program similar to the famous Swiss system.

Under the effective Swiss system, he pointed out, every youth is trained to defend his country.

For 132 years this training has paid back dividends to Switzerland, in security and peace.

Canon Williams served in both World Wars, in the first as Navy enlisted man and in the second as commander in the Chaplains' Corps.

He was chaplain aboard the carrier Wasp when it was sunk by enemy action in the Pacific. He was wounded both while serving on the Wasp and on the West Virginia. In addition to the Purple Heart, he wears the Bronze Star, a Gold Star in lieu of another Bronze Star, Asiatic-Pacific ribbon with Seven Stars, and the Philippine Liberation Ribbon.

Canon Williams attributed much of the success and popularity of military training in the Swiss Republic to its close integration with normal community and civil life.

Training camps, he observed, are near enough to trainees' homes so they can contact families, friends and school or church associates.

There is preliminary training in the schools, from the age of 15 on, until the youth, at 20, enters the military training camps, and when that instruction is completed the young Swiss takes his uniform, rifle and equipment home with him.

UN Waits U. S. Palestine Plan

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 30 (AP)—The American delegation today was putting final touches to its long-awaited proposals on implementing partition of Palestine into independent Jewish and Arab countries.

Drafted by State Dept. experts after consultations with State Sec. Marshall and his top aides, the plan will be offered to a United Nations partition subcommittee by Delegate Herschel V. Johnson. The policy declaration will cover American ideas on how and by whom the Holy Land should be administered preceding full independence.

A spokesman said Johnson would make the speech by the end of the week. Russia, waiting for the U. S. to show its hand first, was expected to follow immediately with the Soviet version of how partition, if finally voted by the UN, should be enforced.

Cleveland's Widow Rites Tomorrow

BALTIMORE, Oct. 30 (INS)—The family of Mrs. Thomas J. Preston, Jr., 83, widow of President Grover Cleveland, said today simple funeral services would be conducted for the former First Lady tomorrow in Princeton, N. J.

Mrs. Preston, who was married to President Cleveland at a White House ceremony in 1886, died yesterday at the home of her son, Richard F. Cleveland, Baltimore attorney, whom she was visiting.

Death was attributed to a heart attack.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Preston is survived by two sons, Richard and Francis G. Cleveland, and two daughters, Mrs. W. S. B. Bosanquet and Mrs. John H. Amen.

Italian-Americans Pledge Flour to Aid Countrymen

In response to an urgent plea by Archbishop Cushing, the Italian-American Charitable Society has pledged a carload of flour to be sent to relieve distress of people in Italy.

The committee in charge of the flour drive also announced that it will conduct a campaign to get further donations of flour to be sent overseas prior to Dec. 9. The committee is headed by Salvatore Cappozzi, as chairman, and Samuel DeMarco, Nunzio Carbone, Angelo Trainello and Atty. Vincent Mottola.

GUM MENACE

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 30 (AP)—Americans of the future may have a new look but if it's a result of chewing bubble gum, it likely will include buck teeth, says Dr. Ernest F. Ristert, dentist of Philadelphia.

Addressing the Greater Pittsburgh dental meeting today, Dr. Ristert declared chomping bubble gum not only will result in tooth malformation but also decay, on account of the sugar the gum contains.

Other dentists joined in the indictment. Constant pressure of the tongue against teeth, in blowing bubbles, pushes the front teeth outward, they declared.

Loss of Mice At Bar Harbor Cancer Blow

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (INS)—Dr. C. O. Little, head of the Jackson Memorial Laboratory destroyed by the Bar Harbor fire last week, described the loss of pedigreed mice today as a "terrible blow" to scientists engaging in cancer research.

He said the fire razed the center's two buildings, the residences of the employes, killed at least 90,000 experimental mice and destroyed invaluable microscopic slides, data and other records which cannot be replaced.

The doctors said destruction of the mice shut off the flow of pedigreed strains to many scientists who did not maintain their own breeding colonies. He added, the center may be able to recoup possibly 10 or 12 of the 30 strains destroyed.

He appealed to all laboratories and research centers which obtained mice from the Bar Harbor cancer center to advise him if they still had any of the strains left for further breeding purposes.

Dr. Little told a news conference it would cost a half-million dollars to reconstruct the famed cancer research center.

Pending construction of a new center, he said, he and his staff would accept the invitation of the Sloan-Kettering Institute in New York to use its facilities. He added:

"This is one way of turning apparent defeat into victory. By merging our staffs temporarily, there will be a marriage of biological and chemical research that might not have been possible otherwise."

700-Lb. Woman Taken to Hospital

JOLIET, Ill., Oct. 30 (AP)—The services of 17 men, including 10 policemen, were required to remove Mrs. Elizabeth Ebner, 70, who weighs 700 pounds, from her home to a hospital.

Mrs. Ebner, who has been bedridden for 20 years, suffered a hip injury a week ago and yesterday was taken to a hospital. Ten policemen, unable to place Mrs. Ebner in a police ambulance, summoned an undertaker who, with the aid of the policemen, placed Mrs. Ebner on a casket cart and took her to the hospital in a hearse.

The policemen, two undertakers and five hospital employes were required to lift Mrs. Ebner. She was placed in two hospital beds which had been bolstered up with lumber.

Montreal Red Plot to Ruin Churches

MONTREAL, Oct. 30 (AP)—The newspaper Le Canada said today it had learned from "a source worthy of credence" that provincial Premier Maurice Duplessis would announce shortly the discovery of a Communist plot to damage religious property in Montreal.

There was no immediate comment by provincial authorities or by police or religious sources.

The paper said Duplessis was planning the announcement "to show to what point Communistic activities have reached" in Canada.

SANTIAGO, Chili, Oct. 30 (AP) Amid the shouts of Communist hecklers, Chilean Interior Minister Adm. Immanuel Holger told the Chamber of Deputies last night that Soviet Russia was trying to "spread its tentacles over America" through the organization of "Pan Slav Unions" with headquarters in Montevideo.

Holger told the Chamber that the Chilean government possessed detailed facts and names connected with the organization of Czechoslovak, Yugoslav, Russian and Polish colonies in South America through an "inter-Slav co-ordinating committee," whose members, he said, had been instructed by "Moscow" not to appear publicly as "Communist elements."

Holger's speech was delivired in explanation of Chile's recent severance of diplomatic relations with Russia and Czechoslovakia and the expulsion of two Yugoslav diplomats, which caused Yugoslavia to break with Chile.

Missing Plane with N. E. Man Sought in Florida

SEBRING, Fla., Oct. 30 (AP)—Search for a twin-engine private plane and its two occupants, missing since Friday night, continued today between Orlando and Atlanta.

Robert Keil, 29, of Ansonia, Ct., and Thomas Flannery, Jr., 23 left Sebring at 9:30 p. m. Friday for Atlanta.

Officials of the Eighth Air Depot said they had not worried about Keil's failure to report until he failed to return here Monday afternoon as expected.

Giant Waves Bar Rescue Of 26 Ship Crewmen

MANILA, Oct. 30 (AP)—Towering seas whipped by the winds of a typhoon frustrated attempts today to rescue 26 crewmen and one or more passengers from the stricken motorship FS277, in distress in Butuan Bay in the Mindanao Sea.

The FS362 reported this afternoon the 270-ton inter-island freighter was "in a sinking condition very close off shore." Ahead of the distressed vessel lay the rocky cliffs of Mount Tubay, Northern Mindanao.

THE BRITISH SITUATION

IT IS INTERESTING and enlightening for Americans to read what the British think of themselves.

Such an opportunity is afforded by the October issue of Intelligence Digest—Review of World Affairs, a British magazine, written and published by Keneth De Courcy.

Commenting on the prevailing politics in England, the magazine says:

The biggest single factor in British politics is the inability of the governing party to tell the public the whole truth because the truth would prove almost every thesis it has proclaimed to have been false, and every promise impossible to fulfill.

Thus whatever its good intentions may now be, the majority party is in an impossible position. The leaders know it.

Before the election they said:—

1—Exports did not matter.

2—Shorter hours, more holidays and less work would be practical under their leadership.

3—Large capital expenditure would be possible.

4—The mines under official ownership would produce far more coal—no more strikes, or trouble.

5—There would be agreement with Russia.

6—India would find her soul at last.

7—It would be the age of peace, prosperity and ease for the common man—only the rich would be less well off.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED?

1—Exports are a matter of life or death.

2—The government nas to beg for longer hours, shorter holidays and more work.

3—Capital expenditure must be reduced or the nation will collapse.

4—Nationalization of the mines is proving a disaster.

5—Relations with Russia could not be worse—short of war.

6—India is a blood bath.

7—The common man has never been more restricted, reduced, hungry and miserable than he now is—not in a thousand years of British history.

He hasn't enough to eat, to wear; may be directed to work here, there or anywhere . . . On top of it all he can't even read the news in full or the speeches of his public men.

LET FIRST BE LAST

OTIS ARCHER HOOD, conspicuous for many years in Communist Party activities in Massachusetts, is a candidate for the Boston School Committee in the approaching election.

Due to the fact that positions on the ballot are determined by a lottery, Mr. Hood's name heads the list.

Some political analysts claim that this is good for ten thousand votes if that number of persons should record their preferences thoughtlessly, carelessly and without bothering to ascertain the individual qualifications, affiliations and ideologies of the various contestants.

It is further expected that the radical elements, whose voting techniques are more apt to be well-drilled and highly pertected than haphazard, will strive mightily to add to Mr. Hood's automatic advantage.

Lest this happen, all Bostonians who believe that education should be traditionally and soundly American should go to the polls in such overwhelmingly large and emphatic numbers that Mr. Hood will surely wind up in last place.

If their past behavior is an indication of their present methods, minority groups will endeavor to throw whatever numerical strength they possess into the election.

For that reason, the rest of the citizens qualified to vote cannot afford to be absent and thus risk helping Mr. Hood by their silence and inaction.

Let every person vote promptly, conscientiously and with a firm resolution to give the school system the kind of officials who can be relied upon to express and reflect the views of the great majority of Bostonians who love and cherish the time-honored American way of life.

A Letter About Mr. Louis B. Mayer

MR. R. T. VAN ETTISCH,
Managing Editor,
Los Angeles Examiner.

Dear Mr. Van Ettisch:

WEDNESDAY'S PAPER carried an article from Washington implying that Mr. L. B. Mayer or his agent had been trying to "fix" or influence the Congressional Committee Investigating Communistic Activities in Hollywood.

The implication is unwarranted.

Mr. Mayer was not trying to fix the committee or anything else.

He was inquiring to see if some of the head executives of the company could not be called to testify instead of himself—someone equally well informed as to conditions in Hollywood.

Mr. Mayer is an elderly man and was merely trying to avoid the arduous task of testifying before a Congressional committee beset by a howling mob of Communists.

No one can question Mr. Mayer's devotion to the United States and the American system of government.

No one can question his vigorous opposition to Communistic influences.

It was under him that "Ninotchka" was produced—a comedy which ridiculed Bolshevism.

Nothing else has appeared on the screen which equalled the effectiveness of that ridicule or offered more devastating exposure of the impractical operation of that particular form of criminal lunacy.

Mr. Mayer should receive commendation for his American attitude.

In fact, the committee would do well to run the film "Ninotchka" for its own edification.

It is the best evidence of Mr. Mayer's contempt for Communism and respect for free American ideals.

Sincerely,
WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

It is good to be merry and wise;
It is good to be honest and true;
It is best to be off with the old love
Before you are on with the new. —ANON.

THAT THE ABOVE is sound advice to bachelors cannot be disputed. But the question is how to be off with the old love and still retain her friendship. You know what that man said about a woman scorned. An angry old love is very hard on a bachelor's peace of mind. Very little has been written on the subject of how to get rid of an old love and make her like it. There are a few hints in our Horses & Women files which, of course, are available to all regular subscribers.

PASSING BY: D. Oliver Selznick. Dean of Hollywood boy geniuses. He produced the greatest box office attraction in the history of the film industry. That is "Gone With the Wind." which has grossed $35,000,000 so far and is still going strong. However, D. Oliver is no longer sharing in the profits. He sold his interest to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in 1942 . . . Cyrus P. Ching, Government labor conciliator. I don't know for certain, but I am willing to wager one stogie Mr. Ching is the tallest 71-year-old man in the country. His height is six feet seven inches.

D. O. Selznick

ASKING: Queries from clients. Q—Do the stargazers advise that a Libra girl fall in love with a Leo man? A—According to all experts on the subject, falling in love is not a voluntary act. "Is human love the growth of human will?" asked the highly experienced Lord Byron. "Can love be controlled by advice?" queried John Gay. If you have fallen in love with the wrong man all this department can do it to extend its sympathy and urge you to be as philosophical as is possible under the circumstances. The woman who marries a Leo man often finds herself in a trying position. She can't get along with him and she can't get along without him. However, there is a little silver lining in the cloud. Life with a Leo is difficult but never dull. Or so say the stargazers.

NEW YORK CITY has been having the longest Indian summer I have experienced. I am tired of Indian summer weather. I am willing to give it back to the Indians. I want some brisk cold weather. I want to button up my overcoat when out and sit before a wood fire when in. Needless to say, I am also longing for a white Christmas.

CARUSO'S EXIT: The discussion continues as to what Enrico Caruso carried when he fled from his suite at the Palace Hotel, San Francisco, at the time of the San Francisco earthquake and fire. Hamilton Eames, operatic star, says his information is that the great tenor carried absolutely nothing as he made his exit. "And," adds Mr. Eames, "I am reliably informed that as Caruso exited into Market st. he was not wearing pajamas. He was wearing an old-fashioned nightshirt."

DISAPPOINTED: Now I won't be able to see Cecil, the platypus, until spring. That's what I get for putting things off. I am informed Cecil and the other two Bronx Zoo platypuses, Penelope and Betty, have been removed from public view until next spring. I was very anxious to see Cecil. I have heard he is a very clever and engaging platypus. The fellow who names the animals at the Bronx Zoo appears to have a highly original mind. Imagine naming a platypus Cecil. It's colossal!

THESE DAYS

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1947, King Feature Syndicate, Inc.

THE motion picture industry is repeating the error made when it hired Wendell Willkie to cover up. This time they have hired Eric Johnston and Paul McNutt, but there will be no cover up. It is not because Johnston and McNutt are less competent, but that times have changed. The American people have heard the voice of Vishinsky. They have witnessed the downfall of a large number of countries in Europe because their peoples were not vigilant.

They want to make sure that no so-called American is working for the international conspiracy that Vishinsky represents at the United Nations. Talk about a synthetic "scare" is silly after what has been happening to this world since V-J Day.

If the motion picture industry had any competence at public relations, they would favor the Thomas committee investigation and let the chips fall where they may. Instead, they are employing Eric Johnston and Paul McNutt to sign full page advertisements in newspapers, to issue interviews, to threaten the Thomas committee and to get themselves and their photographers in the newspapers along with a heterogeneous group of mummers and directors and things who prefer citations for contempt rather than to tell their true names and to answer whether they are or are not Communists, which might land them in a perjury charge.

THE IMPRESSION which the Johnston and McNutt activity gives is that, on behalf of the motion picture industry, they are engaged in a publicity barrage designed to detract attention from men and women who may expose themselves as Communists. The non-Communist or anti-Communist has nothing to fear. After all, decent men are not afraid to answer the question: Are you married or single?

Since the learned Judge Fuld of the New York State Court of Appeals has made it difficult to describe a known Communist as such unless the Communist is willing to produce a party card, which he will not do, the only protection the United States has against a Russian fifth column and a vast body of American Quislings is such an investigation as the Thomas committee is conducting and the work of the FBI. These creatures now have judicial protection to do their work in this state, fearful only of the Thomas committee and the FBI.

It is all very simple before the Thomas committee: If a man is not a Communist, an agent of Soviet Russia and has never been one, and has no vile record, all he needs to do is to state under oath. I would be willing to take such an oath at any time. So would most Americans. The only ones who dare not take such an oath are those who fear the charge of perjury and its consequences.

THEY CAN MAKE a lot of noise about freedom of thought, but what we face is the corruption of our children, the use of the most popular medium of amusement, one that appeals particularly to young people, by an enemy. If it can be proved, after investigation, that the movies have not been used corruptly, then that is to the credit of the motion picture industry. If it is established, as some say, that only a handful of writers, actors and directors are involved in this indecency, then it is an advantage, for we know who they are.

If it is found that the objectionable characterizations and the objectionable sequences were done as war propaganda under the stimulus of soft-minded public officials, then we ought to know about that and who the officials were or are. The fact that villains on the screen are generally bankers or businessmen is definitely designed to stimulate opposition to the American economic system.

At any rate, let us have whatever facts can be brought to the surface, so that Americans may be safeguarded against the forces that have wrecked and ruined country after country in Europe. Do we have to declare war to catch traitors? Do we have to spill the blood of our sons because we wish to safeguard the jobs of miserable creatures who put their own country last? Every Communist is an enemy of the United States of America and has been uninterruptedly since October, 1917.

Hollywood

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 30 (INS)—I love Joe Pasternak's idea for a musical. He's going to call it "The New Look," and as he talked with me he said he wanted to put Ricardo Montalban and Cyd Charisse in the leads.

Cyd Charisse

"My idea is to have them do six different dances in six different countries," said Joe. "But, of course, don't say a word about it until I have had a chance to tell the studio."

That Pasternak! He's always seeing an idea in newspaper items, in a play, or in a book. "The New Look" came to him when he was reading the newspapers, and he's got a song in mind with the same title. He hadn't talked to me five minutes before he had the whole idea down on paper.

Now all he has to do is get MGM to think it's as good as he does, and I'll bet that won't be difficult.

THE BUILD-UP Charlie Chaplin gave Marilyn Nash when he first signed her for "Monsieur Verdoux" sounded like he thought he had Duse under contract. But after just that one movie—their deal is off!

The contract has been canceled very politely—oh, very. Charlie says he has no role for Marilyn in his next two pictures and if Marilyn wants her freedom she can have it. Miss Nash, who is Mrs. Philip Yordan in private life, accepts.

Reading between these amenities, apparently she wasn't the wow he thought she was going to be in "Verdoux."

BILL DOZIER let me see some scenes of "Letter From an Unknown Woman" and they look awfully good. Joan Fontaine and Louis Jourdan are so good together. I think that Jourdan will be a terrific new star. He's very much like Charles Boyer in "Algiers"—so good looking that the girls are sure to go for him.

The day I was on the set the picture was ending at Universal-International, and all the people who worked with Joan were given gifts.

Joan and Bill leave for New York about Nov. 7 for a month's vacation, and I made a date to see them there.

GEORGE SANDERS was the most perturbed man in town when he telephoned to tell me he had no intention of going to South America with Charlie Chaplin and Tim Durant.

The suave Mr. Sanders was sputtering when he said: "To say I am tying my political beliefs with Chaplin's is ridiculous." From the tone of his voice, I'm glad the accusation appeared in another newspaper—not my column.

"My family was forced to flee from Russia for their lives during the days of terror," he went on, "and to intimate that I share Chaplin's beliefs, whatever they are, is absurd. True, I was offered a part in a picture to be made in South America, but I am offered many roles I do not accept."

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: I met Margaret Sullavan in Saks, where I was doing some shopping for my trip to New York. On her way home Margaret had an automobile accident, a collision with two other cars. Fortunately she wasn't hurt, only her knee bruised, but she certainly had a fright.

She was well enough to go to dinner later with Efe Ferri at Ciro's, but not able to dance. Maggie looks like a teen-age youngster—and certainly has solved the secret of keeping herself young.

There's talk about Philip Friend, English actor on the Paramount lot. Friend was brought here originally by David Selznick and after two years, when he hadn't made a picture, he was about to go back to his native land. Then he was given a job in "My Own True Love" at Paramount and when it was previewed a week or so ago, the raves were loud and long.

I haven't seen him yet but the report is that he's going to have the town on its ear. That's the movie Compton Bennett directed with Phyllis Calvert.

I visited the set of "Another Part of the Forest" the day Florence Eldridge and Freddie March started the picture. The set was a grocery store and eggs were advertised for 17 cents a dozen, and potatoes 2 cents a pound. Those were the good old days!

We watched a scene where March played the mean father and Edmund O'Brien, the bitter son. They are not very pleasant people, these in Lillian Hellman's play. O'Brien fascinated me; he's become so skinny. He lost 30 pounds.

Gail Russell

Standing around the buffet table at the Somerset House were Lawrence Tierney and Vivi Stokes Taylor. What, is that on again?

There the same evening were Lila Leeds and Walter Kane, who seem to be the town's newest twosome. Lila was once Steve Crane's girl friend.

Lew Ayres, who hasn't been in New York for seven years, goes there as soon as he finishes "Johnny Belinda."

Rita Hayworth's father, Eduardo Cansino, an expert on gypsy dancing, is coaching Rita for "Carmen." He was her first teacher and she has always felt his teaching helped her a lot.

Kathryn Grayson will bring two of her nieces, aged 6 and 7, here from Las Vegas to live with her.

Donald Buka, who has been playing the lead in the long drawn out "Vendetta" for Howard Hughes, goes to New York to play the second lead with Charles Laughton in "Galileo."

Mrs. Richard K. Palmer, wife of the agent, is mother of a seven-pound four-ounce baby daughter, born at Van Nuys Hospital.

George Raft leaves for Europe in 10 days for that movie he planned so long ago. He's taking Mack Gray with him.

Joe Drown and Martha Kemp Mature, a new twosome at Ciro's.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

My Boston

By Alan Frazer

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES was the greatest booster Boston ever had. For instance, he would admit Washington Monument was twice as tall as our Bunker Hill shaft. But he said, in substance: "What's the difference? If you look at Bunker Hill Monument from half a mile away, and Washington Monument from a mile, why they're the same height." . . . Everybody knows that Dr. Holmes saved Old Ironsides for posterity with his stirring poem beginning: "Ay! tear her tattered ensign down." . . . Few people know that he failed dismally in another pet project. He tried for years to get the city fathers to turn around George Washington and his horse in the Public Garden, so the horse's tail wouldn't be toward the Garden, the Common and the central part of Boston.

DENIS W. DELANEY, our internal revenue collector, sings like a thrush. If you haven't heard him render "Rose of Tralee," with or without accompaniment, you just "ain't heard nothin'." . . . Says Denis with a wide grin: "I'm the only amateur tenor left in the United States, and I'm getting sick and tired of having to sing for my meals" . . . He will sing for his meal tomorrow afternoon in the Surrey Room when the Hotel Touraine entertains the entire cast of "Oklahoma!" We will be there, if only to hear Denis tackle "Surrey with the Fringe on Top."

POLICE COMMISSIONER Tom Sullivan every day receives hundreds of letters, all marked for him personally. The largest number relate scandal which it is no part of police work to pry into . . . R. Adm. Felix Johnson, visiting here from Washington, said two very unusual things for a "brass hat." He said the enlisted men were the Navy's best advertisement, inasmuch as thousands of them return to civilian life every month. And he gave the reserves credit for winning the war . . . Admiral Johnson had a yacht in the trans-Atlantic race in 1928, with Boston's Charles Francis Adams as his skipper . . . Adams, former Navy secretary, direct descendant of two presidents and of a great ambassador to England.

THE CUSHING job was given to a man who stood somewhere down the list, with a score of 70, plus five points for being a veteran. To appoint him, the Veterans Administration invoked its privilege of "promoting from within," as he was already a VA employe . . . To fill the Northampton job, however, the VA went outside its own ranks, appointing a man who had permanent Civil Service status but had served in a lower grade, and who is said to be related to a Veterans Administration executive . . . Snowden's friends protested in Washington, without avail. So Snowden packed up, moved to Washington and took a $3400 job in the graves registration section of the quartermaster general's department, in which department he has 35 years of service . . . Incidentally, one of his sons is a college professor, a Harvard graduate and an international scholastic prize-winner.

THE BATTLE over sale of 500 more voting machines to the city of Boston, which we told about last Friday (and which made the front page of another newspaper four days later) involves expenditure of nearly $700,000 . . . The Election Commission has set tomorrow for a hearing on the relative merits of the Shoup and the Automatic machines . . . State Senator Philip G. Hoyker, Brookline Republican, is New England sales representative for Automatic which has put in the low bid . . . The Legislature a few years ago took the purchase of voting machines away from the city council, and authorized the mayor and Election Commission to borrow up to $1,000,000 for the purpose. Out of that, approximately $300,000 has already been spent for 224 Shoup machines.

THE FLIMP is being used for political advertising by one of the candidates for mayor of Newton . . . Judge Elijah Adlow has a new book, now being printed at the Norwood Press. It is called "Policemen and People" and it's main theme is: "How NOT to arrest people."

The top executive of the Veterans Administration in the New England area was called to Washington suddenly Tuesday night . . . "Chick" Morris of WBZ is the fellow who set up the broadcast of the Jap surrender on the U. S. S. Missouri, and author of "The Fightin'est Ship" (the cruiser Helena) . . . Interesting thing about the Helena: With her guns she sank the Jap destroyer that sank her with a torpedo. Also, when she was split in two, her bow remained afloat—which is why Morris and a lot of others are around today.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S Committee on Civil Rights, which came out yesterday against racial prejudice, might be interested in this . . . Frank M. Snowden of Roxbury held key jobs in Army personnel work for more than 20 years. He came out of the recent war a colonel. He is a disabled veteran. And he's a Negro . . . Some weeks ago the Veterans Administration had two $5000-a-year personnel jobs open, one at Cushing Hospital, Framingham, and the other at Northampton Hospital . . . Snowden took the Civil Service examination and headed the list. His score was over 90, and his 10 points as a disabled veteran put him over 100. He was certified by Civil Service for both jobs.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, THURS., OCT. 30, 1947

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers, head of the Army Air Force's wartime procurement, is about to get hit with a bag of wet cement when the Ferguson-Brewster-Hughes war contracts investigation reopens Monday.

"Benny" Meyers, as the 48-year-old purchasing official is generally known, will be slapped with a receipted hotel bill showing he accepted more than $1000 worth of week-end entertainment from Howard Hughes, via his fat bagman, Johnny Meyer.

The hotel bill, from the swanky Town House in Los Angeles, will be produced by Sen. Homer Ferguson of Michigan, who will ask the general why he accepted favors from a man trying to get Army contracts.

General Meyers, who married Ila Rhodes, a movie actress about half his age, four years ago, enjoyed a very expensive week-end at the Town House with his wife. The tab shows it was lifted by the ubiquitous Johnny Meyer with one of his famous "okay to pay" notations.

WITHOUT realizing it, I have been sitting on most of this story since the Hughes investigation opened early in August. It didn't ring any bell at the time because I didn't have the connecting facts. This is what happened:

I went up to the hearing on opening day and started gandering around the Senate caucus room. I spotted Johnny Meyer and started toward him to ask if he had become engaged to any interesting fiancees lately, when my arm was grabbed.

The grabber turned out to be an attorney named John Harlan Amen who had just got back from Europe after serving as a prosecutor with Justice Jackson at the war crimes trials. But I first met Mr. Amen a decade ago when he was appointed special prosecutor in Brooklyn by Gov. Lehman. He created quite a furore by blasting at the district attorney's office.

THE AMEN INVESTIGATION was long-drawn-out and produced many sensational newspaper stories but few convictions; in fact, it got to be known among the reporters covering it as the "convictionless hip-hooray."

Anyway, Amen grabbed my arm and I stopped to cut up a few old touches with him. Then I inched my way through the crowd to where Father Knickerbocker—I mean Johnny Meyer—was sitting on two chairs.

He gave me a very large hello, which might well have indicated to an observer that we were friends. With him was Frank Sinatra's old sparring partner, Mr. Lee Mortimer, who conducts a night life column for the New York Mirror.

Mr. Mortimer revealed he was there to cover the night club angle, which seemed reasonable because Mr. Meyer does much of his angling in night clubs.

I was asking them about conditions in the Stork Club and El Morocco when Atty. Amen came over and slipped me a note.

He backed quickly away without explanation. I glanced at the missive, which read:

"Ask Johnny if it isn't true that Gen. Meyers' wife reimbursed him in cash for the week-end at the Town House?"

"Every time he lays an egg, Matilda cackles."

By George Dixon

I didn't know what the devil it was all about and showed the note to Mr. Meyer. He snorted:

"If everybody paid me back who owes me did I'd have so much money I wouldn't have to keep on working for Hughes."

Just then Sen. Ferguson summoned Johnny to the stand. He took the oath to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but. And the first question popped by Sen. Ferguson after the preliminaries was:

"Were you ever repaid, or reimbursed for any of the money you laid out for entertainment?"

Without a flicker of hesitation, Mr. Meyer shouted:

"No, sir—never!"

IF SEN. TAFT is ever in Attica, Kansas, and wishes some campaign ammunition, he might go to a cemetery outside town where this is engraved on a tombstone:

"Through this inscription I wish to enter my dying protest against what is called the Democratic party. I have watched it closely since the days of Jackson and know that all the misfortunes of our nation have come to it through this so-called party. Therefore beware of this party of treason.

"N. G. Grigsby, died April 16, 1890. Aged 78 yrs., 6 mos., 5 days."

THE LATE MR. GRIGSBY must have been a Republican, wouldn't you think?

Kick That Waistline Away

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

A KICK a day wastes the waistline away. Ann Delafield, director of the Richard Hudnut Salon and DuBarry Success course recommends the kicking exercise (shown at right) as a sure way to whittle the waistline. When you do this exercise . . . you'll feel a definite pull on the waistline.

SHADES OF THE GAY NINETIES . . . the "hour-glass" silhouette is back. But if you'd rather do your own meddling with your midriff . . . instead of being forced to wear the "cinch" corset (said to lessen the natural waistline by two inches but don't you like breathing, anymore?) . . . you better start kicking off the midriff "rubber-tire" bulge. A high kick a day wastes the waistline away! That's what Ann Delafield says! She is director of the Richard Hudnut Salon and DuBarry Success Course in New York . . . dedicated to transforming the forgotten woman into the unforgettable woman.

All of us can't be sleek mannequins. We don't want to be. But we do want to make presentable figures of our outlines . . . so that we can be fashionable along with those women whose anatomical loveliness is apparent.

Most of us put off the day to do something about our figures. Every day we plan to start . . . but somehow or other that day never comes . . . or it doesn't come until it is absolutely necessary for good health.

This season . . . "that day" is here for fashion's sake. If femininity has been returned as a priceless possession to women to develop and cultivate via their clothes-look . . . what woman is going to toss away that golden opportunity?

You are probably "bored to death" with the repeated admonition that to achieve the new look you must be tiny-waisted and of long-limbed lines. Yet it is there . . . and if we are self-conscious women what can we do about it? Rugged individualism doesn't have fashion-room this season . . . and who wants to look "circusy" or the only one out-of-step when all around us women are availing themselves of the chance to get slim and trim?

MARK the spot that you want to reduce with a mental X because that is where the body should fall. This uplifting exercise (in center, above) in which the hip is rolled over halfway between hip bone and spine and then the body is returned to the floor with a thumping of the fat spot is an active way of melting the flesh away.

A SPANK a day keeps the hips away. And at the DuBarry Success Course where figure transformation is part of a prescribed goal . . . this is one of the requisite exercises. Pummeling those fat spots with a rub-a-dub-dub up to the hip and down to the knee reduces the hips.

UPPER BACK and arm slimmer. Lie on your back on the floor with your fingertips on your shoulders, your elbows in at your ribs, shoulders and arms flat on the floor. Lift your elbow off the floor . . . lift your left shoulder off the floor . . . lift your head off the floor . . . keeping flat on the floor from the waist down. Then twist the upper torso to the right . . . get your left elbow as near your right elbow as possible. Relax and reverse.

DEFENSIVE COURSE

At the DuBarry Success Course in New York . . . where figure revamping is a daily routine . . . the exercises outlined today by its head, Miss Delafield, are part of the imposed curriculum. They are part of the expensive 6-week course endorsed there. But your favorite newspaper gives them to you for a few pennies.

So here goes:

Ann Delafield says "a high kick a day wastes the waistline away." Lie down on the floor on your back . . . be sure that your waistline in the back is digging INTO the floor and that your arms . . . which are out on the floor, shoulder level, are kept tight on the floor . . . especially at the shoulders.

Now kick your left leg as high as possible in the air. Keep that knee straight . . . and then cross the leg over the body and touch your left foot to the floor near your right hand. Feel the pull on the waistline? Try to get this foot a little bit nearer your hand. Now . . . kick your leg in the air again and then . . . EVER SO SLOWLY . . . lower your leg to the floor as you dig your back at the waistline into the floor. Do this now with your right leg and then repeat the exercise 20 times . . . alternating sides.

Ann Delafield says to "mark the spot that you want to reduce with a mental X because that is where the body should fall." Lie flat on back . . . arms outstretched shoulder level . . . palms turned up . . . right leg flat on floor. Bend left knee . . . bringing left foot on floor near buttock. Roll over on right hip halfway between hip bone an spine. After you have located the fattest spot on your right hip . . . raise hip from the floor and return with thump on the fat spot. Repeat 50 times. Reverse position of legs . . . do exercise 50 times on fattest spot on left hip.

Ann Delafield says "a spank a day keeps the hips away." Make fists of your hands and now . . . starting at the knee . . . pummel, literally, pummel those fat spots with a rub-a-dub-dub up to the hip and down to the knee. Keep up this pummeling for two minutes by the clock.

REDUCING HIPS

Ann Delafield says "mountain climbing makes legs larger." In order to reduce the lower leg . . . never do exercises that involve the leg muscles unless the legs are higher than the heart. An easy way to exercise with the legs higher than the heart is . . . lie on your back next to the wall. Climb up the wall . . . hold this position to the count of ten.

In tomorrow's Boston American, we'll outline some exercises subscribed to by the movie stars in their requisite need to "hold that line."

DON'T INTERRUPT

It's amazing how the discourteous habit of interrupting can grow . . . it seems practically impossible for some people to let another person finish speaking before they dash into the conversation. Check yourself . . . have you this unpopular habit?

"Company manners" don't fool anybody. Actually they aren't sturdy enough to stand on their own feet . . . lack of experience and of use makes them wobble!—MRS. BEECKMAN.

Sweet Potato Treat Gives Meal Variety

By MARTHA LEE

(From National Newspaper Food Editors' Conference)

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 30—One of the most common vegetables here in the South is the yam sweet potato—and autumn is the time of its golden harvest. These are the rosy-skinned sweet potatoes with the deep orange color interior, and we find them in everyday southern meals served with the main course—baked around ham, pork, or spareribs; mashed and made into balls and rolled, either in coconut or chopped nuts; fried, or just plain baked.

Not only are they used as a vegetable, but they are frequently mashed and used in making fritters, waffles and breads of various descriptions, and numerous desserts such as pies and puddings. We can well understand why the Southerner likes them so much after eating this delicious sweet potato pudding, sweetened with molasses and served with light cream

SWEET POTATO PUDDING

2 cups grated or finely chopped raw sweet potatoes
2 eggs, beaten
½ cup sugar
½ cup molasses
½ tsp. salt
½ cup margarine or butter
¾ tsp. allspice
¼ tsp. cloves
2 cups milk

Peel raw sweet potatoes and grate them finely or put them through the food chopper twice, using the fine blade. Combine eggs, sugar, molasses, salt, and spices. Heat milk and stir in grated sweet potatoes and margarine or butter. Cook long enough to thoroughly bake potatoes. Add to egg-molasses mixture. Mix well. Pour in a baking pan (8x8x2 inches). Bake two hours in slow oven (300 deg. F.). Serve warm, either plain or with light cream. Makes nine servings.

SWEET POTATO PONE

2 large sweet potatoes
2 cups boiling water
¼ tsp. black pepper
½ cup margarine or butter
½ tbsp. brown sugar
1 tsp. salt
2 tsp. allspice

Pare and grate potatoes; add boiling water and mix well. Add remaining ingredients and beat well; turn into greased, shallow baking pan and bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 1 hour. Makes 6 servings.

SWEET POTATO PIE

9-inch pie shell
About 4 cooked medium sweet potatoes
1-3 cup granulated sugar
¾ tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. lemon extract
1 tbsp. flour
¼ cup melted margarine or butter
2 eggs
¼ tsp. nutmeg
¼ tsp. salt
1½ cups milk

Line a 9-inch pie plate with pastry, having a fluted edge. Press cooked sweet potatoes through a sieve, or mash well with a potato masher, then measure 1 1-3 cups. Beat the eggs until light, then add sugar, nutmeg, cinnamon, salt, flour, lemon extract, and milk, and beat with an egg beater until smooth. Add margarine or butter and mashed potatoes, and beat well with egg beater. Pour into pastry lined pie plate, and bake in a moderately hot oven of 400 deg. F. for 45 to 55 minutes, or until a silver knife inserted in the center comes out clean. Makes one 9-inch pie. May be served with whipped cream topping if desired.

Have you sent for your copy of "Southern Recipes" yet? The supply is limited, so get your request in as soon as possible. Address Martha Lee, Record-American, Boston, 6, Mass.

Birthday Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Thursday, October 30, 1947

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you must resolve to spend more time and money on your personal appearance. Persons born on this date are liable to fool themselves into thinking that good grooming isn't important. They are needlessly handicapping themselves and losing many excellent opportunities for happiness.

Gracious to Invite Co-Hostess

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: Last week I went to a bridge party given by two hostesses. That is, both their names were on the invitations, but I knew only one of them. In this case what is my social obligation? Must I invite the other hostess to a party sometime?

T. W.

There is no strict "obligation" to the hostess you didn't know, but it would be gracious of you to include both these hostesses in a more or less general party you give . . . for example, to a tea or other late-afternoon party, or to a buffet dinner or supper, or perhaps to a luncheon.

Smart Set Lectures Starts Fifteenth Season

By BETTY ALDEN

FIRST OF THE MORNING gatherings, so much a part of the winter social season, took place yesterday when Mrs. William Dana Orcutt opened the 15th season of her popular Mornings of Diversion, in N. E. Mutual Hall.

The fashionable audience arrived early for the sociable coffee hour and an exchange of greetings after long summer vacations. Then they settled down to enjoy a scholarly and romantic lecture by Edward Griggs about the great Italian poet Dante. Many of the audience, like Mrs. John Shillito, said they were going home to reread the Divine Comedy with added enjoyment and understanding.

Mrs. Russell Codman, Jr.

Mrs. Sherman Miles, sapphires and diamonds sparkling on her left hand, was one of the gracious pourers at the flower laden coffee table. Mrs. Joel Goldthwait, Miss Amy Sacker and Mrs. Halfdan Lee also officiated during the coffee hour. The latter was taking time off from her busy job as president of the N. E. Farm and Garden Ass'n. Mrs. Horace Binney is hostess for the season and Miss Edith Bullard assists at the door.

Guiding the bevy of debutante ushers was the bride of Boston's fire commissioner, Mrs. Russell Codman, Jr. (Jane Ferguson), who wore a sporty lavender wool suit with gold buttons. Her assistants included Ann O'Day, in a scarlet wool dress with gold applique on the bodice, Wendy Low Grey. Lorna Hubbard, whose wool dress was beige and brown stripes, Marjorie Dean, Gale Smith, Lydia Lund and Jane Cox.

Mrs. Robert Watson, the former Polly Blodgett and a well known figure skater, was a junior hostess together with several brides, Mrs. Percival Gilbert, Jr., Mrs. Henry Rich Keene and Mrs. John W. White.

Dorothy Cornish, socialite soprano who has had a fling at grand opera, has returned from a long vacation at Centerville and came to the lecture in a modish gray suit with an unusual lapel pin, a gold canary with a topaz eye, made for her by a local jeweler. Also chatted with Mrs. Walter I. Badger, charming in violet wool with an ostrich trimmed hat; Lavinia Sabine, Mrs. Harry Hayward, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Orcutt and the latter's sister, Mrs. H. C. Stetson.

NOTES FROM a Society Editor's Cuff: Mrs. Samuel Hallowell of Dedham has finished her Christmas shopping and for a very good reason. The stork is due at the Hallowell household before Thanksgiving and the former Julia Barbour is looking forward to being too happily engaged with the new arrival to have time for shopping during the holiday season. Incidentally, her mother's summer home at Beverly Farms was one of the estates seriously threatened by Tuesday's forest fire. The smoke became so thick Mrs. Barbour packed a few family treasures in suitcases and was all set for a notice to evacuate. The family chauffeur was one of the fire fighters.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hildalgo (Nancy O'Neil) have left for Mexico City where he is on duty as an aide to Defense Secretary Forrestal. On the eve of their departure they were given a farewell party at the Barclay Hotel in New York by Mrs. Helen Deeter of Philadelphia. Nancy is a former Boston deb and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold McNeil of Chestnut Hill

Mrs. John Simpkins and four children have moved up from Yarmouthport to spend the winter with her mother, Mrs. J. Brooks Fenno of Commonwealth ave. Mimi Simpkins, the debutante of the family, is at Wellesley College and will make her debut at a dinner party next month. Halloween Midnight Orpheum Show

A Halloween midnight spook show . . . second of these annual "horror" shows . . . is to be staged at Loew's Orpheum Theatre tomorrow at the witching hour.

Doors will be open at 11:45 p. m. Two full-length chillers-dillers are to be shown. There has been a healthy advance sale of tickets, but plenty more remain on sale at both the State and Orpheum boxoffices.

Eddie Cantor Film On Laffmovie Screen

The Eddie Cantor-starring "Roman Scandals," in which the popular comedian is supported by a hundred glamour girls, tops the bill presently unreeling on Laffmovie screen.

Other program items are "Rhythm and Weep," with the Three Stooges, and the usual cartoon assortment of Donald Duck, Goofy and Mickey Mouse in "Orphan's Benefit," a Puppetoon and a Merrie Melody.

The Record-American pays $50 in weekly prizes for news and picture tips. Call City Editor, LIBerty 4000.

Turhan Bey Loves Beautiful Girls, But He's No Wolf

The columnists to the contrary notwithstanding, tall, dark and handsome film-star Turhan Bey would have you know he is no heart-breaker.

Frequently romantically linked with this, that or the other Hollywood glamor-girl, the Vienna-born star of Eagle Lion's new romantic comedy, "Out of the Blue," tossed off this journalistically-conferred Cassanova billing as strictly ersatz.

Oh, don't get him wrong, he loves beautiful girls but he is no wolf. In Hollywood, where professional jealousies make real friendship a rare and precious thing, loyalty and kindness are treasured even by . . . or perhaps this should read, particularly by lovelies who seem to "have everything."

The Bey . . . this is a Turkish title he is entitled to use . . . thus put the right English on his fabled social program, after reluctantly parting from a group of pretty members of an organization dedicated to the admiration and encouragement of "more manly males."

He says tut-tut to all that Kiss-'em-and-leave-'em drivel. He is, if you really want to know, the type of fellow the girls seek out when they have that type of problem, or any kind of problem. Not a male Elsie Fairfax Dix, Allah forbid, but a sympathetic ear.

"I have a pleasant little house at Malibu where my friends like to drop in. But, more important, I have a wonderful mother (Mme. Fredericka Selahettin of Beverly Hills) who has helped me to develop a philosophy of life that has seen me through some tough times. Once in a while I've been able to give someone else a right slant he or she has missed because of being too close to the problem."

With his Turkish father in the diplomatic service, Turhan Bey knows Europe and Asia fairly thoroughly, speaks French and German fluently "but probably couldn't pass a high school exam." That you, too, would doubt, listening to his intelligent comments on many topics. He will soon be seen on the Paramount and Fenway screens in "Out of the Blue," in connection with which he is now touring the country's key cities.

21 "From the Halls of Montezuma to the Shores of Tripoli" will be heard to the skirl of pipes in Boston when the Second Infantry Battalion, Marine Corps Organized Reserve, 495 Summer st., recruits the necessary number of pipers and drummers it wishes to enlist.

When the band is formed it will be the second in the history of the corps.

Marine pipers became famous in Britain during the war years when a detachment under Col. James J. Dugan, commanding officer of the Second Infantry Battalion, was formed in Ireland.

Back Bay Playboy Told Of in Article

Like his famous poetess aunt, cigar-smoking Amy Lowell, the late Augustus Lowell Putnam prided himself on being unorthodox.

So unorthodox was this Back Bay businessman and playboy that he swapped wives with a close friend and then left a will giving all his "tangibles" and a $40,000 life insurance policy to a Polish actress, Irena Popielsha-Wagner.

The exciting story of his life and loves, and of the contest being waged by his second wife for revocation of his will, will be told in the article, "Putnam Family's Wayward Gus," in Sunday's American Weekly magazine issued with the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

JVA Aides Vie In 4-H Tests

Competing for top awards in the fifth annual State 4-H Boys' Day at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst were blue ribbon champions from state and county fairs, including Junior Victory Army members.

Awarded to the county scoring highest in three contests was the Nathaniel Bowditch sweepstakes trophy for whihc there was keen competition. Delegates entered judging contests in dairy, poultry, livestock and vegetable gardening.

Berkshire County was winner last year while winners of individual contests included: Poultry, Hampshire County; Dairy, Norfolk County; Livestock, Berkshire County and Vegetable Gardening, Franklin County.

State 4-H Boys' Day was designed to encourage greater interest in club work among older youths and to stimulate endeavor in their respective projects.

H. A. Leland and E. H. Nodine, assistant club leaders, had charge of the event and were assisted by members of the college staff. County agents also co-operated.

To join the JVA, send your name, age and address to the Junior Victory Army, P. O. Box 228, Boston, Mass. If, in addition to enlistment, you want the JVA insignia pin and membership card, enclose a 10-cent coin, well-wrapped, in your letter.

Truman Backs Funds For Reclamation Service

PHOENIX, Ariz., Oct. 30 (AP) —President Truman said today that efficiency and economy in domestic expenditures "demand a long-range appropriation program" for reclamation.

In a message to the annual convention of the National Reclamation Ass'n, the President expressed hope that the association can work out plans for developing "our Western river basins on a scale which will meet the requirements of the nation."

Free Substitutions Turning Grid Games Into Rat Races for Fans

By VINCENT X. FLAHERTY

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 30—It hasn't been very long ago when they were saying they should give this game of football back to the players. Maybe it would be a good idea, if football were given back to the fans.

I mean this business of wholesale substitutions, of making a regular rat race out of what was once a good game a fan could follow.

In the old days, they kicked-off with 11 men on a side, and usually the same 11 players were in there at the finish. In the old days, it wasn't anything unusual for a player to complete the full 60 minutes. Now, when a footballer plays 50 minutes of a ball game they talk of him in terms of an iron man.

There should be some stringent rule rung into football governing substitutions. This thing of players going in and out of a single game four, five, six and more times confuses the spectators and takes something vital away from the game.

The colleges started it more than 20 years ago by running in full teams. Rockne had his pony backfield, a quartet of light, fast fellows he used to run the other team into the ground before he sent in his heavy duty boys.

Once it was started, all coaches had to follow the pattern in self-defense. Certainly a fresh player has the edge on an opponent who has been playing a couple of quarters.

Fans Really Knew Each Individual Player

THUS, COACHES met substitution with substitution. But now this thing of wild substitution has taken a turn for the worse. The pros have added to the confusing aspects by using football specialists—fellows who are good at pass defense and not much good at anything else; or ball carriers who are good in the important matter of making yardage, but washouts defensively.

When a customer buys his way into a ball game he usually comes for the express purpose of seeing certain outstanding stars. He wants to see a Buddy Young or a Sammy Baugh or a Glenn Dobbs playing a good portion of the time.

But, nowadays, when a player reels off a good-sized run the coach yanks him out for a rest, and maybe the coach will forget about him for quite a stretch of time thereafter and leave him languishing on the bench.

Perhaps things look better in retrospect, but it seems to me football was a better game when it was loaded with 60-minute men. The spectator knew each individual player at first sight—was familiar with the way he walked or ran or moved. The spectator didn't have to run through a program for the numbers—he knew the players for they were full time participants of every ball game.

Announcer Confused

A BACKFIELDER stayed in there on defense as well as offense. A kicker, or blocker, or good defensive man wasn't sent in to replace him. When the coach sent the player into the game, the player was almost certain he would play a greater part of the 60 minutes, barring injury.

But now when you go to a game, the whole proceedings are held up after almost every play. The coaches send in four or five players at a time, and sometimes the coach blows a fuse himself and finds he has 12 men on the field.

When the Los Angeles Rams mopped up the Chicago Cardinals in the Coliseum, the announcer was so busy trying to keep check on the substitutions he had a hard time identifying the players who were catching passes, carrying the ball or making the tackles.

Certainly, if the announcer couldn't keep pace with the game—he with the names and numbers of the players before him—the poor, belabored customer didn't have a chance.

Football men, collegiate as well as professional, should get together and pound through rules preventing a coach from sending a player back into a game more than twice. The major football colleges, with a lot of talent on hand, made football an 80-man affair instead of a game of 22 men

Baseball Simple

PRO FOOTBALL, in this day and age of high salaries, could cut down its overhead by limiting the size of its squads—say, to about 25 players instead of 35. If the substitution rule was tightened up large squads wouldn't be necessary. It would be even up for all teams involved and the game would revert to its normal pattern

Baseball is easy to follow because it is a game of nine men. Pitchers get knocked out of the box, but a lot of pitchers stay in there the full nine innings. Except for an occasional pinch-hitter, the same eight men are in action every day.

Pro football is setting the football styles now. It would be a good idea if the professionals took the lead in ridding the game of the substitution evil, so that when the fans came out to see Waterfield, Banta, Harmon and Gehrke, they'd see these four gentlemen most of the time.

If something isn't done, football is going to lose its crowd appeal and take a sudden nose dive. The fans are complaining about the parades of substitutes. One of these days they'll get fed up and forget to make an appearance when it is time for the kick-off.

AMATEUR BOXER DIES IN COAST RING

PASADENA, Cal., Oct. 30 (AP)—James M. Wilander, 27, San Diego sailor, died in the ring at the Pasadena Arena last night after collapsing in his bout on an amateur boxing program.

Wilander, slumped to the floor in the fourth and final round of his bout with Robert W. Harris, 20, of Los Angeles.

Dr. W. F. Lyan said there was no outward sign of injury. He said a heart attack may have caused death.

Ringsiders said Wilander was knocked down in the first round but had shown no indication of being seriously hurt.

Chandler Promises Facts

CINCINNATI, Oct. 30 (AP)—Baseball Comr. A. B. Chandler's office promised a "statement of facts" today following suspension of the White Sox and General Mgr. Leslie O'Connor yesterday in a case pivoting on an alleged violation of the high school rule.

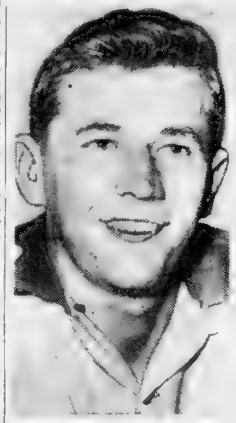
O'Connor and the American League club were suspended, Chandler's secretary, Walter Mulbry said, after the general manager refused to remit a $500 fine levied in the signing of 17-year-old George Zoeterman, a Chicago Christian High School pitcher who won't finish his studies at the institution, supported by the Reformed and Christian Reformed churches, until January.

Himself a strict enforcer of baseball law during 24 years as aide to the late Judge Landis, Chandler's predecessor, O'Connor so far has said only that he was suspended from baseball, and doesn't want to talk until he issues a statement later.

Mulbry said last night that both O'Connor and the club would be reinstated immediately if the fine was paid, but the White Sox boss indicated he would fight the Chandler edict. The ball club's executive office released a statement, however, terming the suspension an illegal act and an attempt "to coerce the club and Mr. O'Connor in the submission to his (Chandler's) illegal acts."

As originally drafted by a major league committee of which O'Connor was a member, the high school rule applied only to schools holding membership in the National Federation of High School Associations.

Baseball sources claimed the rule never was amended but Mulbry said that after its adoption two bulletins were sent to club owners advising them Chandler would interpret the rule as applying "to all high school students, regardless of whether the school was a member of the federation or not."



GEORGE ZOETERMAN

The high school rule, adopted by the leagues in December, 1946, declared: "No student of a high school which is a member of the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations shall be signed to a professional baseball contract until the day following his graduation, or, if he has left school, until the day following graduation of his class."

The suspension, he explained, bars both the club and O'Connor from participating in any of baseball's "transactions and activities," including the major league player draft Nov. 10.

Mulbry said he "assumed" the team couldn't play ball if the fine were not paid by the start of next season and added, without elaboration, "but the commissioner would take more definite action."

In its statement last night, the White Sox executive office said "the rule under which Chandler purports to be acting is in the most positive, precise and unambigous terms, expressly limited to students of the National Federation of High Schools.

"Chicago Christian High School is not a member of the association. (Officials of the, school verified this and reported it is accredited by the state as a private school.)

"The commissioner in voiding our contract with this player and in finding the club violated his own rules of procedure, the baseball rule under which he purports to act and various other provisions of the major and major-minor league agreements and rules and also the law of the land. He is attempting to coerce the club and Mr. O'Connor in submission to his (Chandler's) illegal acts. We will resist such coercion to the fullest extent."

Both Boston Clubs Sought Zoeterman

CHICAGO, Oct. 30 (AP)—George Zoeterman, 17-year-old left-handed high school pitcher who is the central figure in baseball Commr. A. B. Chandler's action in suspending Leslie M. O'Connor, general manager of the Chicago White Sox, says 13 major league clubs were "interested" in him before he signed a Sox contract.

"I hope the contract difficulty is cleared up," the young southpaw said, "because I'm a Sox fan and I want to pitch in Chicago. I expect to go to Pasadena with the Sox in February."

Zoeterman said he signed the controversial contract last Sept. 6 after receiving a $20,000 bonus from Emmet (Red) Ormsby, the White Sox scout. He said he talked to representatives from all of the major league clubs except Washington, Cincinnati and the New York Giants before signing the Sox contract.

The youth, who has pitched four no-hit games for the Chicago Christian team in the Chicago private school league in the last two years accompanied the Sox and pitched batting practice on the team's last eastern trip last season.

But if young Zoeterman, who is a member of the Christian Reformed Church, pitches for the White Sox he will not take part in Sunday games. He said the Sox contract provides that he need not pitch on Sundays because such activity would be contrary to his religious beliefs.

"If I were playing for the Sox and they were battling for the pennant, I still wouldn't play on Sunday," George said. "In fact, I wouldn't even listen to the game because I don't believe in listening to the radio on Sunday."

Chandler Couldn't Make Breadon Fine Stick

By BILL CORUM

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (INS)—When Happy Chandler, the "Big Suspenders" of Kentucky, tangles with Leslie O'Connor on the rules of baseball, he's playing cards with Hoyle.

The general manager of the Chicago White Sox and former adjutant of the late Judge Landis knows the laws that govern baseball better than any man alive.

He should. He wrote many of the rules, including the one under which the commissioner has suspended him.

The writer was told by a man in position to know that O'Connor and the Chicago American League Club are determined to fight the ruling. To take it into the civil courts if necessary.

But baseball has an understandable antipathy of "lawing." Its position is not as strong as it might be under the civil law.

If what happened when Happy imposed his first fine on the head of a major league club is a criterion here, there will be no lawsuit. But neither will the fine be paid.

Our memory is that Happy fined Sam Breadon $5000 for visiting the Pasquels in Mexico without getting the permission of the commissioner to do so.

Like O'Connor, Breadon refused to pay. While the matter hung fire, there was a joint committee meeting of the major leagues scheduled. The owner-president of the Cardinals showed up at the meeting.

The commissioner informed him that unless the fine was paid he couldn't attend the meeting. Breadon replied that he wouldn't pay the fine and would attend the meeting if one was held.

That brought about a road block. An impasse. Had the representatives of the 15 remaining clubs been so minded they could have sustained Chandler by going ahead with the meeting without the St. Louis owner.

They were not so minded.

The commissioner took one look around and decided that maybe he had been a little severe. Or maybe he just decided that he was on a spot.

I seldom have known anybody who seemed to enjoy being on a spot more. Why, I find it hard to understand.

Does he think that somebody is going to go on making $50,000-a-year jobs for him forever, just to hear him sing "My Old Kentucky Home?"

Harvard In For Rough Afternoon

By BILL GRIMES

Just to give you a rough idea of what the Sons of John Harvard will encounter Saturday, Coach Harvey Harman will bring the same first Rutgers eleven here that tipped over Dick Harlow's boys 13 to 0 last fall.

Now that in itself is bad news for the Cantabs, but here's the clincher. Some of the Queensmen who held down first string berths on the '46 team have been beaten out of their jobs by newcomers.

A year ago, the experts were in agreement that Harvey Grimsley was one of Rutgers' standouts in the Stadium. Well, Grimsley will be on the bench when Saturday's conflict starts. He lost his job to Irwin Winkelried, who, therefore, must be a pretty fair country right halfback.

The Queensmen will also show a new end, Bill Hackett, who weighs 200 and stands 6-2. Last Saturday Hackett snatched two of Frankie Burns' passes out of the air and raced across Lehigh's goal line for a couple of T. D.'s.

Speaking of Frankie Burns recalls to mind Dick Harlow's warning a year ago this week. He told the press that in Frank Burns, Rutgers had one of the best backs in the country. At this week's press-radio-coaches luncheon, Harlow reminded the boys of his 1946 prediction concerning Rutgers' Mr. Burns.

Here's what Harlow had to say about Burns and Rutgers last Monday.

"Burns is the finest back in the country. You gentlemen remember how he backed up the Rutgers' line last year. He's pro timber.

"Rutgers ran all over the field against Columbia in their opening game. They lost two touchdowns on penalties or they'd have beaten the Lions. Rutgers has a good football club. Harman has been pulling his first varsity out after one period.

"I'd be awful glad," continued Harlow, "to trade off Rutgers Saturday to anyone who wants them."

Frank Sabo who hails from Newark, N. J. (not Brockton, Mass.) will be in the fullback slot for Rutgers against the Crimson. He is the leading ground gainer of the Queensmen despite the fact that he tips the beam at only 175. At the right half back position Rutgers will have Herman Hering, who is a fellowtownsman of Frankie Burns.

HC GROOMS CENTERS

WORCESTER, Oct. 30 (AP)—Holy Cross coaches are devoting considerable time this week to Phil Nolan and Bill Stetter who will have to divide duties at center because Jim Deffley won't be ready, even though he took a light workout yesterday before rain drove the squad indoors.

Missing from practice was big John Digangi, a lineman who has a bad cold and back injury.

N. E. Athletes Closely Linked to Hoya Sports

By FRED HOEY

Georgetown University athletic teams, especially football, has drawn hundreds of sparkling athletes from the New England district. In the past three decades New England boys have dominated its football, baseball and track teams. Even the Georgetown team which plays Boston College at Braves Field Saturday afternoon has 10 N. E. boys in the squad. Six of these are outstanding.

Down through the years many of its gridiron stars were either All-America or All-South class. One of the first of these standouts was "Hub" Hart, a great halfback and a catcher, who closed a big league career with the Chicago White Sox. Hub is an uncle to Torby MacDonald, former Harvard great.

Jackie Maloney who gained his first fame at Boston English High under the late John D. O'Reilly matriculated at Georgetown where he starred in football and baseball. Jackie later helped coach the Hoyas. Gus Malley, a Boston Latin product, was a football and baseball player of note at Georgetown.

Names not to be overlooked when Georgetown sports are discussed are those of Monsignor Jeremiah Minihan of Norwood; Tom Moriarty, district attorney at Springfield; Neil Cronin of the Veterans Administration; Dr. Ralph McCarthy, Red Sox club physician; Billy Joyce, Lynn Classical coach and developer of the great Harry Aggannis; Tom Whelan, principal of Lynn English High and former sports coach at that school after a baseball career with Indianapolis; Freddie Murray, well known and capable football official; Dan O'Connor, the All-Southern tackle; Andy Gaffey and Eddie Brooks of Medford, Ralph Duplin of Stoneham; Tony Plansky of South Boston; Johnny Gilroy of Haverhill; Bill Kenyon of Manchester, N. H., and Superior Court Judge Frank Murray.

Other notable Georgetown athletes of the past are Arthur Duffey, the great sprinter, the first to cover the dash in 9 3.5 seconds; Dan Callahan of Norwood, Fred Stankard of the famous Waltham sport family of that name; Fred Sherman, Lieut. Comm. in the late war; Clayton Sheedy, a great first baseman and Charley McCarthy, fine football official.

Delving further into pro baseball, Georgetown once had Clyde Sukeforth, present coach of the Brooklyn Dodgers and a fine catcher in his own right, and Del Bissonnete of Maine, who did a chore as Braves manager when Bob Coleman resigned.

So it is no wonder that hundreds of Georgetown Alumni residing in this district will gather at Friday night's smoker at the Hotel Lenox to pay tribute to Coach Hagerty and his players.

Bruins Take NHL Lead By Beating Rangers

The Boston Bruins, beaten by only the Montreal Canadiens, were in the driver's seat in the National Hockey League today, one point ahead of the Detroit Red Wings and the Toronto Maple Leafs.

The Bruins moved into undisputed possession of the top spot when they hammered the New York Rangers, 3-1, last night in the Madison Square Garden ice opener before a crowd of 15,677. At the same time, the Wings took the measure of the Chicago Black Hawks, 5-2, while Toronto beat the Canadiens, 3-1.

The Bruins showed entirely too much staying power for the Rangers. The New Yorkers held an edge in the early part of the contest but the Bruins, with defenseman Fernie Flamon and wingman Woody Dumart leading the way, assumed charge at the midway point.

The Wings made it five losses in five starts for the Hawks, shooting into a four-goal lead in the opening period before 16,736 fans at the Chicago opening.

Chicago's weakness on the defense was pointed up by the fact that the Hawks now have had 21 goals scored against them in five games. The Hawks have indicated they would like to get Netminder Jim Henry from the Rangers.

If the Hawks want to exchange Forward Alex Kaleta and $15,000 for Henry, the Rangers will be only too glad to make the swap. New York Manager Frank Boucher said last night. However, Boucher doubted that such a transaction was likely right now.

The question arose following published reports yesterday that President Bill Tobin of the Hawks, seeking a replacement for Emile (Cat) Francis, had made the offer for Henry. Boucher told newsmen that he immediately telephoned Tobin in Chicago saying he would be delighted to close the deal. Tobin replied, according to Boucher, that he had been misquoted and had suggested no such exchange. By the Associated Press

Donelli Shakes Up BU; 3 Regulars Unseated

Three heads rolled, as Buff Donelli's axe fell with a heavy thud today in an attempt to put the Boston University Terriers back on the victory trail. The long awaited shake-up in the BU lineup became a reality when it was announced that Capt. Don Giles, John Toner, and George Ramacorti would not start against the Fordham Rams.

The unpredictable Giles has shown poor form all year, and Donelli feels that he may be pressing a little too hard. The Milton lad was supposed to be the sparkplug of the team at the start of the season, and the BU offense was built entirely around him.

At the same time, Pete Sarno has been used in spots, and has looked good. In the Purdue battle, the Revere lad made several flashy runbacks on punts, and he continued his fine play against William and Mary.

The same situation exists in the quarterback slot. John Toner has plenty of football savvy, but the last two games have really taken their full measure of his strength. He's not quite rugged enough to stand up against two such powerful gridiron machines as the Terriers met these past two weeks.

John understudy, Billy Tighe, has been steadily improving, and his 43-yard touchdown pass against the Indians earned him the starting niche.

Drawing a parallel to the Giles case, we find that the entire BU defense was pegged around "Big" George Ramacorti. The 220-pounder has been slow getting started, and Donelli banked heavily on his previous experience to carry the load. But he hasn't lived up to advanced expectations.

Art Kirkelis will fill the right guard post, and sophomore Dave Barrett has been assigned the right tackle berth. These new faces may be able to instill life into the right side of the Terrier line.

Looking down the Fordham roster, one wonders why their record to date has been so poor. Heading the Rams is George Reiss, 198-pound guard and also captain of the squad. George is an experienced veteran, having earned letters both in his freshman and sophomore years.

Joe Sadonis, at right tackle, is another 200-pounder that has been showing well this year. Joe is a 26-year-old senior, and reports from the Fordham camp have tabbed him as a pretty rugged lineman.

Heading the backfield is Stan Bloomer, a holdover from the older days when Fordham was one of the country's foremost grid aggregates. He is a triple threat man, and the Fordham attack is pegged around him.

Bay State Woods Still Closed; May Add Days to Bird Season

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

Despite the long-awaited rain which arrived yesterday, the woods of Massachusetts are still closed at this moment, for at least a two-day steady soaking is needed before the complete danger of forest fires is quelled. Thus, again we urge everyone to stay out of wooded sections until official word emanates from the State House.

It is possible that days lost now will be added to the pheasant season, which is due to end Nov. 20, according to a talk we had with James Power, Director of the Fisheries and Game Division, who stated that very few of the birds were lost in the Bay State fires. This will be decided as soon as the woods ban is lifted.

Rabbit hunters, field trial followers, club members, and other sportsmen will be given a chance to discuss the question of importing cottontails into Massachusetts, at a hearing to be held in Room 443, at the State House, next Wednesday, commencing at 11:00 a. m.

Judging from recent letters we have received, the "rabbit issue" is becoming an important one in these parts, and many outdoorsmen believe that they are entitled to more of the animals for gunning and trials. Of course, the subject of Tularemia is bound to enter the picture, plus the objections of land owners and farmers. At any rate, a lively confab should ensue.

OUTDOOR OO.'s: A private hearing took place yesterday, at the request of Gov. Robert Bradford, between officers from the State Council of Sportsmen's Clubs, the Mass. Conservation Council, and the Mass. Fish and Game Ass'n, in an endeavor to iron out various differences on ideas for the proposed reorganization of the Dept. of Conservation . . . Whether the gentlemen "saw eye to eye" on every issue is problematical; however, we feel that an agreement on ONE constructive bill will be reached shortly since all bills must be submitted before the first Wednesday in December.

A meeting of the five-man Sportsmen's Advisory Board was held with Director Power this week, the group pondering over the Fish and Game budget, with particular emprasis placed on Game Farms and Hatcheries. Work is now being rushed on blueprints, which will show the extent of the proposed rearing pools for the benefit of out-of-state experts, who have been checking our facilities.

Dartmouth Plans Aid for Ironman

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 30 (AP)—George Schreck, who played center for Dartmouth without relief against Brown and Harvard—and played well, may get some help Saturday when the Green plays Yale in the Bowl at New Haven. Line Coach Johnny Dell Isola has been grooming top reserve guard Jim Melville in the duties of the pivot man.

First reports this week were that Dartmouth would be at full strength against Yale but the condition of halfback Connie Pensavalle still is doubtful.

Gresh to Start for Brown Against Holy Cross

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 30 (AP)—Marty Gresh is expected to start at right halfback for Brown Saturday against Holy Cross because of injuries to Chuck Nelson.

In making a crashing block Tuesday in a scrimmage, Nelson hurt his chest and X-ray examinations showed the bruise to be serious.

Reserve halfback Bob Shaughnessy is being groomed as a halfback replacement.

Lippy Still In Dark

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (AP)—Leo Durocher doesn't have the foggiest idea whether he will manage the Brooklyn Dodgers next year, and he doubts whether Branch Rickey, the man who must make the decision, is any better informed.

"Let me put it this way," Leo said with every evidence of candor. "I think I know what Mr. Rickey, down in his heart, would like to do. But I also realize that he has a problem on his hands. We all have problems, including myself."

From this it may be judged that the little holler-up guy who piloted the Dodgers until his world collapsed about him one dark day last April has mellowed considerably in exile. He isn't demanding his job back. He merely hopes with a terrible earnestness that he can sit in the Brooklyn dugout again.

Of only one thing Leo is certain: He expects to have another talk with Rickey before he returns to the Coast to open up his sporting goods store. He said that the Dodger president, before leaving on a flying trip through the Mid-West yesterday, made the appointment.

"Maybe I'll have some news for you then," he said hopefully.

"This much I can say, that Mr. Rickey has a letter from Commissioner Chandler saying that I have served the time of my suspension and that I now am eligible again to be employed by any club in organized baseball.

"I know that, because the letter came to me and I turned it over to Mr. Rickey. Yes, I think he was satisfied with what the letter said. He seemed to be."

Heavyweights feature the weekly fistic card at the Fall River Casino tonight with the Mill City favorite, Tony Ferry, tossing leather at Vince Pimpinella, Brooklyn, N. Y.

TUFTS' SUBS HOT

History may be made at Tufts Oval Saturday when the Jumbos play Amherst. The reserves played so well yesterday Coach Fred Ellis hinted he might start his second stringers who ran all over the first stringers in scrimmage on offense and stopped them dead on defense.

Yanks' Scout Rates Luckman Tops

"Sid Luckman is not only the greatest passer in football today but he is the smartest signal caller the game has ever had."

This bold statement without any qualifications which was made by Leo "Buffer" Collins, Boston Yanks veteran scout, will be argued by many but nobody will ever get Collins to back down.

"Plenty of people argue as to who is the greatest passer today—Luckman, Sammy Baugh, Paul Christman or Don Waterfield. The same applies to ball handling, but there is nobody who can dispute the fact that Luckman has no equal, and has never had, as a play caller.

"Down at Washington last Sunday," continued Collins, "the performance of Luckman was something that every coach dreams about—another coach on the field calling plays. Sid deliberately wasted his first series of downs and most of his second series with ordinary plays but he was observing very carefully. First, he would send a man in motion to the left and see who covered him and then send one out to the right for the same reason. He would set a back out on a flank and put an end wide to see what would happen.

"After Sid saw the basic defenses and learned how motion was being covered, he went to work. His play calling was masterful—Washington never had a chance. If he couldn't pass—but he can; if he couldn't ball handle—but he's a master at it; he'd still be invaluable just calling them," concluded 'Buff.'

And now turning to the records, the latest N. F. L. figures reveal that Sid Luckman will come into Fenway Park, Sunday afternoon, against the Yanks with the top passing figure in the entire loop. He has completed 77 out of 129 for 1192 yards and 11 touchdowns. His completion figure of 59.6 is the highest in the league.

Even this imposing record does not tell the story, according to Frank Korch, the Bears' publicity man. For some strange reason such great receivers as Ken Kavanaugh, Jim Keane, and Bob Fenimore dropped not less than seven touchdowns in the clear on Sid during the first three ball games.

Luckman seems to improve with age.

Currivan, Seno Pace Pros

The newest statistical figures show that the Boston Yanks have some outstanding individual operatives . . . Frank Seno is tied for first place in kickoff returns with 16 for 416 yards—an average of 26 yards per effort . . . Seno is also running away with pass interception honors, having grabbed six to date . . . Don Currivan, with four touchdown passes caught, is tied for leadership in the Eastern Division and is tied for fourth in the East for scoring honors . . . despite the fact that Hal Crisler has been operating on one leg and with one arm, he is still fifth among the pass receivers with 11 caught . . . Red Maley is the top punter in the league with a 43.8 average . . . Boley Dancewicz holds the No. 4 spot among the Eastern passers and Bill Paschal, even though he didn't carry last Sunday (his one offensive effort was called back because of an offside) is still fifth among the Eastern ball carriers.

Von Euw Wins Husky Berth

Herb Von Euw, 210-pounder from Roslindale, will start at right halfback for Northeastern Saturday when the Huskies play against New Hampshire. He replaces regular John Curley of Mattapan, injured punting ace.

Von Euw is a good line plunger.

Curley, however, because of his defensive play and kicking, has been used more frequently. Last week he wrenched an ankle against Tufts and will see only limited action in the N. H. game.

The Huskies are tuned up to stop passes by Bruce Mather of Medford, who spearheads the Wildcat aerial attack.

Harrington, Burns Bolster Fort Devens

FT. DEVENS, Oct. 30 (AP)—Tackle Buzz Harrington of Springfield, who has been out since the first game with a dislocated elbow, and left half Dave Burns, who hasn't played because of a dislocated shoulder, will start for the Ft. Devens football team Saturday against Rhode Island State. At fullback will be Ed Strake, who a week ago was on the fourth eleven.

Ballard Wins Post In Vermont Backfield

BURLINGTON, Vt., Oct. 30 (AP)—Johnny Ballard, 24-year-old sophomore war veteran, will stare at right half for the University of Vermont Saturday against University of Massachusetts. Ballard, who will replace Bob St. Gelais, threw a touchdown pass last week against New Hampshire and ran for touchdowns twice against Norwich the previous week.

Maine Stages Secret Drill

ORONO, Me., Oct. 30 (AP) — Passing and kicking drills were the program for the University of Maine football squad which is practicing secretly in preparing for the opening state series game against Colby Saturday. There was no contact after scrimmages Monday and Tuesday.

WATERVILLE, Me., Oct. 30 (AP)—Colby's football squad will be at the peak of physical condition for Saturday's State series game against the University of Maine, Coach Walt Holmer has ordered no contact work for the rest of the week, and every member of the squad is in good shape.

The Boston Olympics move into Shawinigan Falls, Canada, tonight for their second Quebec senior group hockey league game in two nights.

Coach Hago Harrington's pucksters turned back the Quebec Aces, 3-1, last night.

British Like U. S. Golf Ball

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 30 (AP) Both the U. S. and Britain teams practiced in foursomes today at the rain drenched rolling Portland Golf Club course where they compete this week-end in the seventh matches for the International Ryder Cup.

The matches open Saturday with two-ball foursomes.

The Britons braved heavy rains to keep up their regular schedule, but the only American on the course was Sammy Snead, who confined his play to fairway shots.

Fred Daly, the Irishman who holds the British Open and PGA titles, set the pace in yesterday's rounds of the soaked Raleigh Hills layout, carding a 33—36—69, three under par despite the soft conditions.

Max Faulkner, who had a two under 18-hole round to trail Daly, noted at the end of the day that the Britishers were having trouble with their approach shots. "We don't get enough behind the stick, but before the matches start Saturday, we will have mastered the distances."

British team captain Henry Cotton observed that his teammates felt more confident of victory since touring the course, that the rough was "not rough at all" compared to their home courses.

Cotton also commented that under the heavy conditions which have prevailed since they arrived earlier this week to begin practicing his team favored the slightly larger American ball.

"If given the option, I would play the larger ball because it sets up better on the soggy turf," Cotton said. Most of the British team members nodded agreement. They indicated, however, that use of the larger American ball would not affect the outcome of the matches. The only dissenting Britisher was Dai Rees, who said he believes the smaller ball would add distance to their driving because of the heavy moist air.

Williams to Use Two Backfields

WILLIAMSTOWN, Oct. 30 (AP)—Pat Higgins, ace of the Williams College backfield, may see limited action Saturday against Union. He has returned to practice for the first time in two weeks. Coach Whoops Sniveley has indicated he would use two backfields as units in Saturday's contest.

BECOME A QUALIFIED ACCOUNTANT
A SCHOOL WHERE EACH STUDENT SETS HIS OWN PACE
IN
1 YEAR DAY COURSE
2 YEAR EVENING COURSE
PERSONALIZED INSTRUCTION
Plus 4-week post graduate intensive review
For any who desire to try the State Board C. P. A. Examinations

This course trains students by scientific laboratory methods—"learning by doing"—and prepares them for good positions in the accounting field, including public accounting. The text used are the most modern time-saving available and have been adopted by many leading progressive schools and colleges offering complete accounting courses. No previous knowledge of bookkeeping is required. Classes are limited and students get individual attention—your rate of progress depends on YOU—not on the class!

WHY WAIT, we have openings NOW. Study under a fully qualified faculty, including practising C. P. A.'s and lawyers.

$110,000 Robbery—Photo - diagram shows how bandits executed $110,000 holdup at the Sturtevant manufacturing plant in Hyde Park. Five gunmen, in working garb in the shop section (1), made their way to second floor office (2) of mailing department, grabbed payroll there and fled (broken line) from main entrance to waiting car (3), driven by sixth gunman. They escaped in the direction indicated.

Ted Vacations—Star slugger of the Red Sox, Ted Williams, who led the American League in batting with .343 average, takes time out during a fishing trip to the north woods to feed a tame deer at Lac du Flambeau, Wis. Accompanying Ted is Joe Godfrey, Jr., secretary of the Sportsman's Club of America. AP Wirephoto

Rescue Fails—New York police carry the broken body of Mrs. Esther Carlson, 45, of that city, from a 30-foot pit into which she leaped or fell. Muttering "I'm sick and tired of living," the woman was rushed to a hospital. She died soon after arrival. International News Photo
